New effort set in May

Arms talks collapse

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance started home from Moscow today expressing hope for an agreement eventually to reduce the Soviet and American nuclear arsenals despite his failure to get negotiations started during his visit to the Soviet capital.

Vance flew to Bonn to confer with Chancellor Helmut Schmidt and brief him on his fruitless five-day attempt to break the deadlock over a new Strategic Arms Limitations Treaty (SALT). He was spending the night in London and visiting Paris Friday for similar talks with British and French officials.

Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev on Wednesday rejected two alternative American proposals, but Vance and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko agreed to meet again in May. "In my judgment this has been a useful visit," Vance told reporters at the Moscow airport. "Our objective was not a simple one. Reaching agreement on arms control measures can't be accomplished overnight.

"In the meantime, I'm sure that both sides will study the matter which we discussed and will find that their objectives are similar."

More failure awaited Vance in Bonn, where West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt on Wednesday night rejected the Carter administration's urging that it modify its nuclear deal with Brazil and do more to stimulate the West German economy as an aid to international economic recovery.

Schmidt told a news conference West Germany's sale of a $4.8-billion nuclear installation to Brazil would be "one of the most important topics" in his talks with Vance. He reaffirmed his determination not to bow to the U.S. demand that the sale of a reprocessing plant that could make fuel for nuclear weapons be excluded from the deal.

"The American government has known since last year ... that we are determined to abide by contractual agreements," Schmidt said.

Schmidt also reiterated that West Germany has done its share to spur international economic recovery, despite insistence by President Carter's advisers that it and Japan can do more.

The president's reaction to Wednesday's breakdown of Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty negotiations in Moscow was not surprised.

But he expressed his determination to pursue a major reduction in nuclear weapons and declared: "I will not modify my human rights statements."

And, despite his expressed desire to end the arms race, he pointedly warned Moscow that he will consider intensifying development of U.S. weapons if he decides after negotiations in May that the Soviets are not acting "in good faith."

The next round of arms talks is set for Geneva in May with Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko heading the two delegations.

Carter will be in Europe that month, attending an economic summit meeting with NATO leaders and conferring with Syrian President Hafez Assad about prospects for a negotiated Arab-Israeli settlement.

He said he has no intention "at this time" of meeting with Soviet officials then.

After learning of the breakdown in the Moscow talks, Carter told congressional leaders of his plans to "hang tough" for a comprehensive accord that substantially reduces the two superpowers' arsenals.

And, in an impromptu news conference, he told reporters "there was no linkage" between his advocacy of human rights in the Soviet Union and Kremlin rejection of the SALT proposals taken to Moscow by Vance.

"But I can't certify there is no linkage in the Soviets' minds," Carter said.

Regardless, he said he would not modify his statements on human rights, which "are compatible with the consciousness of this country."

The President said he intends to "remain very strong in my position" that the two superpowers this year negotiate not just a superficial agreement allowing them to continue the arms race but to freeze development of new missiles and reduce launchers and multiple warheads substantially.

"I am not in any hurry," Carter said. "It is important enough to proceed methodically and carefully." He made no mention of the expiration in mid-October of an interim weapons agreement.

THE OHIO Bell Telephone Co. has paid its Fayette County real estate taxes for the first half of 1976.

Ohio Bell's Susan Link presented the company's check for $66,353 to the Fayette County treasurer. The company's 1976 half-year taxes are up more than $6,500 over 1975's payment for the same period.

The telephone company pays real estate taxes on its land and buildings and public utility property tax based on the wire mileage distribution within a given taxing district.

Corporate tax dollars are distributed to each taxing district according to current tax rates by the county treasurer's office.

ALL LITTLE LEAGUERS who will be 10 years old by July 31 must try out for the major leagues at 9 a.m. Saturday at Wilson Field.

Tryouts for those youngsters who have never participated in the Washington C.H. - Union Township Little League baseball program will be held at Wilson Field, across from Cherry Hill Elementary School, at 1 p.m.

Children who played on a minor league team last year and who will not be 10 years old by July 31, need not attend either session. They will automatically be assigned to the same team again this year.

Any child who will be 10 years old by July 31 or who has not previously played in the local Little League program must attend Saturday in order to participate this year.

First-time players who had not previously registered must be accompanied by a parent.

To repeat, the only children who will be allowed to play Little League baseball without attending Saturday's tryouts are those who played on a major league team last year, and those who played on a minor league team last year and who will not have turned 10 years old by July 31.

Any child eight years old or older is eligible to play in the Little League program.

Deafness no handicap to WCH man

Sounds of silence

By CINDI PEARCE
Record-Herald Staff Writer

The phrase "Sounds of Silence" may seem like a paradox, but it's not. Any person who has spent time in a secluded building void of noises knows how awesome silence can be. It is a sound. The sound of no sound.

Bill Rodgers, a chemist at the Agrico Chemical Co., has spent over six decades in audio isolation. Born deaf, the only sounds Rodgers has ever "felt" (this term perhaps more accurately describing his reaction to these noises than the word "heard") is the occasional backfire of a car, or the loud "bang" of a rifle. They caused him to jump.

He refrains from using sign language. Instead Rodgers reads lips, which he does well and responds orally.

Many deaf people read lips but this particular means of communication, even for the most astute lip reader, isn't 100 per cent accurate. Some people read lips and use sign language simultaneously which is considered "total communication". This method is now being taught to deaf people who attend schools.

Born in California, Rodgers was the first son, and second child, of hearing parents. "There isn't any deafness in our family," he said.

At the age of 18 months, his parents realized that there was something wrong with him. When his older sister would come into his room and make the usual playing noises, he wouldn't respond. He was taken to a doctor, who was the father of a deaf child himself, and was tested. The doctor clapped loudly. Rodgers didn't react. The doctor used a tuning fork for further testing. Again, Rodgers gave no indication of hearing the noise.

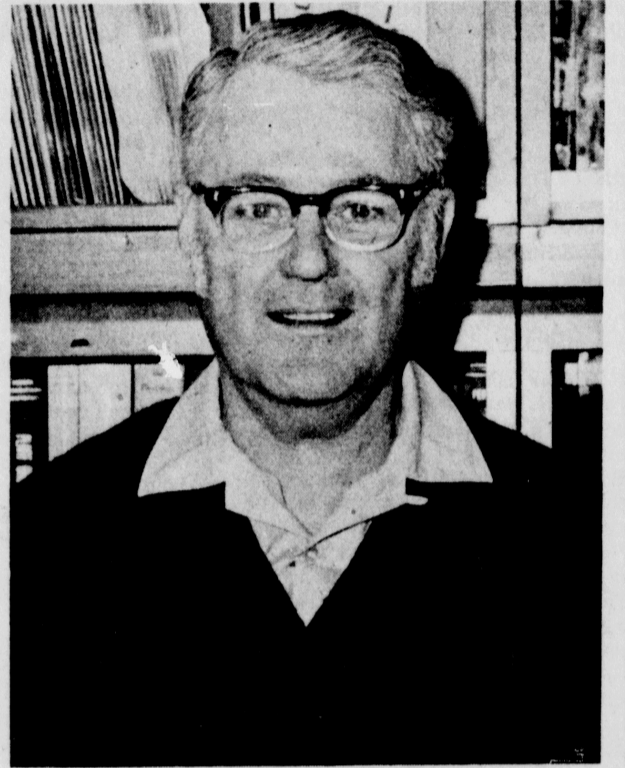

After Rodgers' handicap was discovered, his parents moved the family to St. Louis, Mo., so he could attend what was considered one of the top schools for the deaf. At this time, his mother attended Washington University, in St. Louis, where she was trained in the teaching of the deaf. She continued working in this area for 30 years.

At the school, Rodgers was taught to speak by holding his hand on the throat of a teacher while she spoke. As he explained, different sounds make different vibrations in the throat and this is how he, and the other deaf students, learned to formulate words.

Rodgers said his teacher would play the piano and he and other deaf students would place their hands on the instrument to get an idea of the particular vibrations made by striking a particular chord.

Rodgers eventually left the school for the deaf, attending public schools from sixth grade throughout college, something which he said was "very difficult" for him.

Before marrying, Rodgers dated "hearing" girls, but he remarked that all along he had full intentions of marrying a "deaf girl", or daughter of deaf parents, or a social worker or teacher of the deaf because a deaf mate or someone familiar with the deaf, would understand his problems.

Once, while in New York City, a friend fixed him up on a blind date. Her name was Mildred. Rodgers recalls that he and Mildred went out for an evening of dining, dining and dancing, but afterwards, he decided that he didn't like his companion, who too was deaf and had been so since a childhood accident resulted in such.

Ironically, three years later, Rodgers encountered Mildred and her fiancé at a subway station. Mildred's fiancé lived in New Jersey and had to catch a train for home, but he didn't want to leave Mildred alone in the subway station. Rodgers assured the man that he would take care of Mildred. "I told him to go on home. She'd be fine, just fine," Rodgers commented.

From island crash

Pan Am sets airlift of victims' remains

SANTA CRUZ DE TENERIFE, Canary Islands (AP) — Pan American hopes to start an airlift to the United States Saturday with the bodies of its passengers and crew members killed in the runway collision at the Santa Cruz airport four days ago, a spokesman for the airline said today.

Pan Am's executive vice president, W. H. Waltrip, said special flights would begin as soon as the airstrip is cleared of the wreckage of the KLM and Pan Am planes that collided in aviation's worst disaster.

KLM Royal Dutch Airline said it would begin flying its victims to The Netherlands.

The bodies, most of them badly charred, were in long lines of wooden coffins in an airport hangar while the work of trying to identify them continued. Officials from the U.S. Federal Bureau of Investigation were helping with the identification of the Americans, but officials said many of the dead might not be identified until after their bodies were examined in the United States.

One of the investigators seeking the cause of the collision reported that the Spanish air controllers working at the time of the crash followed proper procedure and gave instructions in correct English to the two airliners.

The two controllers who were on duty Sunday were interviewed Wednesday by American and Dutch investigators. Authorities said the cockpit recorders from both of the Boeing 747 jumbo jets were being flown to Washington for analysis in the presence of KLM and Pan Am personnel who could identify the voices.

William R. Haley, the chief U.S. investigator, said the recorders should show all conversation among the flight crews and between the planes and the tower in the crucial minutes before the collision that killed 577 persons.

It was hoped that the tapes could answer two big questions about the crash — why the KLM pilot began his takeoff run without permission and whether the Pan Am jet should have still been on the runway when the Dutch plane crashed into it.

The KLM pilot was Capt. Z.A. Veldhuizen van Zanten, 51, one of the airline's most experienced fliers, and KLM has said it was "completely illogical and unthinkable" that he would take off without clearance.

But the chief Dutch investigator, Franz van Reijssen, said the control tower's tape of its instructions showed Van Zanten did just that. Spanish officials said the tower's last instructions to the KLM pilot were: "Okay, stand by. I will call you for takeoff."

The Pan Am plane was still taxiing up the main runway to get into position for takeoff behind the KLM jet.

Van Reijssen maintained that the Pan Am plane passed an exit called C-3 at which it had been ordered to turn off onto a parallel taxiway and was proceeding to the next exit, C-4.

Vehicle found 90 minutes later

County man critically hurt in rural crash

A 27-year-old Fayette County man was admitted to the intensive care unit of University Hospital in Columbus Thursday morning several hours after he was injured in a one-vehicle accident on Post Road.

James H. Wilson, 5857 Knight Road, was taken to the Fayette County Memorial Hospital emergency room by the Fayette County Life Squad following the early morning mishap. He was then transferred to the Columbus hospital and is presently listed in "critical" condition.

The mishap reportedly occurred at 2 a.m. Thursday, but the wrecked pickup Wilson was driving was not discovered until 3:30 a.m. The Fayette County Sheriff's Department received the accident report by telephone. A local citizen's band radio operator apparently discovered the wrecked truck and advised another radio operator to contact the Fayette County Sheriff's Department and to send an ambulance.

Wilson was reportedly driving northeast on the Post Road less than two miles from the U.S. 62-NE junction. He apparently lost control of the truck and traveled nearly 150 feet in a ditch before striking a driveway drain pipe. The truck went over the driveway struck a concrete post, and over turned. The vehicle came to rest on its side facing the opposite direction.

The concrete post and driveway are owned by Leo Beauman, 9492 Post Road.

The only other traffic mishap reported by area law enforcement officers occurred on the McDonald's Restaurant parking lot, S. Elm Street. A car driven by Naomi B. Wing, 74, Greenfield, reportedly struck a parked car owned by Margaret A. Miller, 601 Gregg St. Mrs. Wing told Washington C.H. police officers that she did not realize she hit the parked auto until she returned to the car and several persons pointed it out to her.

Bureaucratic rules studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill aimed at an "arrogance of power" that results in thousands of bureaucratic rules made outside the legislative process has advanced in the General Assembly with overwhelming bipartisan support.

"On what meat has our Caesar been fed that he has grown so mighty?" asked Rep. William G. Batchelder, R-93 Medina, who used a line from Shakespeare to give his impression of an ever-growing government bureaucracy.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Thomas P. Gilmartin, D-51 Youngstown, would give the legislature authority to invalidate new rules promulgated by state agencies, boards, bureaus or commissions. It was approved 92-2 Wednesday and sent to the Senate.

In the upper chamber, senators passed by a 28-5 vote a bill providing for separate primary elections in each major party for the offices of governor and lieutenant governor.

Under an amendment to the state Constitution approved by voters last year, the two top offices will be listed in tandem on the November 1978 general election ballot. But the amendment left to the legislature the task of determining the primary format.

The bill was sent to the House, which is considering separate legislation that calls for a joint or tandem primary.

Support that crossed party lines surfaced for legislative oversight of state agency rulemaking authority, after addition of a key amendment narrowing the scope of the measure.

Rep. Arthur V.N. Brooks, D-14 Cleveland Heights, gained a one-vote majority for language limiting the Joint Committee on Rule Review, created by the bill, to oversight of new rules and regulations.

With power over existing rules, Brooks and Rep. Harry J. Lehman, D-

16 Shaker Heights, argued the review committee would be subject to unprecedented lobbying from special interest groups seeking to escape state regulation.

"No committee will be wined and dined and honored and treated like the joint committee that will be created by this bill," Lehman claimed.

But on the need to reassert at least a degree "of legislative supremacy over the lawmaking process," as Batchelder put it, there was little disagreement.

"They (bureaucrats) are doing more to enforce their rules than the laws we make in the General Assembly," Gilmartin said, and "they are appointed."

Batchelder recalled a committee hearing almost two years ago when a spokesman for the Environmental Protection Agency, testifying on a similar Gilmartin bill, declared that legislators did not have the "expertise" to assess EPA.

"We created the agency and they tell us we don't have the expertise," Batchelder complained. "We face in the bureaucracy in this state, as we do in Washington, an arrogance of power."

A spokesman for Gov. James A. Rhodes, who vetoed Gilmartin's previous bill in 1975, said the administration remained opposed to the concept. The Senate failed by one vote last December on the final day of the session to override Rhodes' veto.

Alabama escapee bound over

Grand jury receives robbery case

An escapee from an Alabama state prison, who allegedly held up a Fayette County service station and then led law officers on an hour-long, high-speed chase early Friday morning, has been bound over to the Fayette County grand jury.

A preliminary hearing for Willie R. Gaston, also known as Willie Sutters, was held Wednesday in Washington C.H. Municipal Court.

Judge John P. Case considered testimony from two witnesses at the preliminary hearing and found there was probably cause to send the case of the 20-year-old Gaston to the grand jury.

One of the witnesses was Roger Gorman, 55, of South Solon. He was working at the Garner's Union 76 Plaza on U.S. 35 near the I-71 intersection when a man driving a 1972 model Cadillac brandished a revolver and demanded money.

The other witness was an Ohio Highway Patrol trooper who was involved in the high-speed chase following the incident.

Gaston was apprehended when he attempted to pull his car off I-71 onto Pfeifer Road just north of the Cincinnati city limits and wrecked. A .32-caliber revolver, $70 in cash, and Gorman's wallet were found in the car.

At a hearing in Municipal Court last Friday, Gaston requested a court-appointed attorney and John C. Bryan was appointed. Bond was set at $50,000.

Judge Case reduced the bond to $40,000 at Wednesday's preliminary hearing.

Although it has been confirmed that Gaston escaped from an Alabama prison last fall while serving a sentence for rape and the car he was driving during the high speed chase was stolen, the only charges filed so far are for aggravated robbery.

TWO FAYETTE County men charged with the burglary of the Red Rose Farm and Feed Supply Co. Monday have pleaded guilty and been sentenced to prison terms at the Chillicothe Correctional Institute.

Herbert R. Thompson, 29, of Maple Street, and Ronald Langley, 36, of 3478 Knight Road, waived indictment and consented to prosecution by bills of information.

Fayette Probate-Juvenile Judge Rollo M. Marchant, presiding in Fayette County Common Pleas Court during the absence of Judge Evelyn W. Coffman, sentenced the two men to terms of not less than two years or more than five years in prison.

The two men were arrested after being found in the office of the farm and feed supply company by Washington C.H. Police Capt. Dennis Brown.

Brown, who sometimes makes night patrols with his doberman pinscher, could not leave the scene of the crime to call for assistance for fear the two men would flee.

He sent his dog to the front door to

Mr. Bonner, a retired horse trainer, died Sunday.

Pallbearers for the burial in Kirkwood Cemetery, London, were Herbert and Brian Bonner, Bob Gueth, Billy Seoville, Cecil Rea and Steve Shaltry.

Airlift set

Americans say the Pan Am pilot was following instructions and the C-3 exit was at an angle impossible for a 747 to turn into.

The Pan Am jet, piloted by Capt. Victor Grubbs of Centerport, N.Y., was just short of C-4 when the KLM jet began its takeoff run. Grubbs tried to get his plane off the runway, but the Dutch jet smashed into it at a 45-degree angle.

Grubbs, 56, who was flown to the United States Tuesday night with other survivors, said in an interview he heard the KLM pilot report he was taking off and shouted into his microphone, "Tell them not to take off. We're still on the runway!" But some sources said his mike may have been set for communication within the plane since the copilot usually communicates with the tower.

Atom energy cooperative eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is considering the idea of a world-wide energy cooperative that would give all nations equal access to nuclear power for peaceful purposes.

Administration sources say the co-op concept is designed to aid in the development of poor nations and could halt the spread of nuclear weapons by giving non-nuclear nations access to atomic power without forcing them to develop their own nuclear technology.

Administration officials stress that the idea still is no more than "a concept." One expert said, "It is not yet a project or a plan because its details have yet to be worked out with greater precision."

The concept would involve a global system under which interested countries could share in the ownership, development and management of nuclear installations and processes involved in the nuclear fuel cycle.

The sources say the program could be a fallback compromise in case current strenuous U.S. efforts fail to stop West Germany and France from selling Brazil and Pakistan nuclear reactors. Along with the systems and technology for a nuclear power system, such sales can supply a weapons-making capacity.

Carter has spoken in the past about the idea of regionalizing certain aspects of the nuclear power industry on a worldwide basis. The original idea was that there might be one centralized enrichment operation serving West Europe, one serving the Middle East, one or more serving the Western Hemisphere and so on.

The same concept of regionalizing the disposal of radioactive waste, either by recycling to yield plutonium or by burial far from inhabited areas, has been discussed and still is considered a valid possibility. This would mutually deny member nations access to atomic arms material, but would not deny them the use of nuclear power.

But the new U.S. concept of internationalizing the peaceful uses of nuclear energy appears to go beyond anything suggested in the past.

It could, for instance, lead to international financing, ownership and management of research programs, reprocessing facilities or of new generations of reactors located inside the United States.

At the same time, sources said, it could give needier nations a stake in the benefits of nuclear energy development, which they cannot afford to undertake on their own.

Administration sources also say such a program could introduce a universal system of cooperation for the orderly development of the nuclear industry as a source of energy and general scientific and medical benefits.

Tandem election bill faces blocks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill calling for the election of Ohio's governor and lieutenant governor as a team has uncertain fate in the Senate.

It will pass in some form, since voters authorized the tandem elections in a 1976 constitutional amendment. However, the amendment left a big question unanswered, "How shall they be nominated?"

Senators approved 28-5 Wednesday the bill for candidates for the two offices to run separately in the primary, then team up in the fall ballot. Some senators said this might produce candidates who are incompatible, and wind up degrading the already innocuous role of the lieutenant governor.

However, Sen. Tony P. Hall, D-6 Dayton, prevailed in his view that the person seeking the No. 2 spot "should have to run statewide, to establish his identity and credibility."

Sen. Sam Speck, R-20 New Concord, said the governor should have some voice in picking his own running mate who would become what was described as "an assistant governor" under the bill. Otherwise, the governor "may not like him, and wouldn't give him any responsibilities," Speck said.

Presently, the lieutenant governor, who earns $30,000 a year, has only one legal duty—presiding over the Senate. This duty would be eliminated, and the Senate would choose its own presiding officer.

Hall's bill provides that the lieutenant governor would become a member of the cabinet, and preside in the absence of the governor. He also would become chairman of a State and Local Government Commission created by the bill to try to solve mutual government problems. The bill provides also that the governor and legislature may provide other new duties for the No. 2 official.

Sen. Staley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, predicted the measure would hit a "quagmire" in the House, chiefly because of concerns over 1978, when the first tandem election will occur.

Meat inspection phase-out blocked

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A lawsuit brought by a group of small meat packers has kept the state meat and poultry inspection program alive—for a while at least.

Franklin County Common Pleas Court Judge William Gillie has issued a temporary restraining order forbidding the state from abandoning the program on April 10 as was planned.

Gillie issued the order last week in response to a plea from the Ohio Association of Meat Processors, Apple Creek Meats, Marshallville Packing and Gerber's Poultry in Kidron.

John Tucker, owner of the Marshallville company, explained that the suit was filed to fight the abandonment on two fronts.

First, he said, there is a state law that requires Ohio to operate a meat inspection program. The legislature has not repealed that law, and Tucker contends, Agriculture Director John Stackhouse can't terminate a mandated program.

Second, Tucker and his fellow plaintiffs claim turning the program over to the federal Department of Agriculture would drive small, family owned meat packing firms out of business.

Current inspection regulations require that meat packers dealing in interstate sales must submit to federal inspection. Packers selling only within prevent escape, while he watched the back door until other police officers arrived.

Bond has been set for a 26-year-old Washington C.H. man, who is accused of attempting to run down an Ohio Highway Patrol trooper Tuesday morning.

Judge Case set the bond at $8,850 for Walter D. Aills Jr., 1245 Rawlings St. A preliminary hearing will be held at 9 a.m. Monday in Municipal Court. He is still incarcerated in lieu of bond.

Aills was charged with felonious assault, driving while intoxicated, and reckless operation following an incident involving Trooper Lester R. Reel, 25, Wilmington.

According to the Washington C.H. Police Department, Aills started a pickup truck and attempted to run down trooper Reel. Reel was able to jump aside and received only a minor back strain.

The truck reportedly hit a parked van after missing Reel and then struck a vacant house on Rawlings Street. Reel was able to open the truck door, but was unable to turn off the ignition after the car struck the van.

Aills allegedly stepped on the accelerator and Reel was dragged for several yards until the truck struck the house. Moments later Washington C.H. Police arrived on the scene and placed Aills under arrest.

The incident reportedly began when Reel issued a traffic citation to Aills' father in the 1200 block of Rawlings Street at 3 a.m. Tuesday.

the state need only pass state inspection.

Tucker contends that the Ohio program is just as good as the federal program, a fact he said is proved by 50 per cent federal funding. That means that the state program meets federal standards.

Stackhouse says he suggested abandoning the state program to save the state more than $4 million. The federal department must fund inspections with the Ohio program out of the picture.

Tucker said that the federal standards seek the same level of meat and poultry products but force packers to meet that requirement through different means.

He said a small business near is Wayne County firm has been making smoked sausage for 80 years but under federal inspection would be forced to spend $20,000 to change its curing method.

"The sausage would be no cleaner," he said.

Election reform bill out of committee

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Majority Democrats sprung their highly publicized election reform bill from a Senate committee Wednesday night after fighting off Republican efforts to take election day registration of voters—"the heart of the bill"—from its provisions.

The vote in the Elections, Insurance and Financial Institutions Committee was 5-3, along strict party lines, with one Democrat absent. It now goes to the rules committee for assignment to a floor vote.

Committee Chairman Tony P. Hall, D-6 Dayton, hailed the bill as a comprehensive package which will encourage participation in the government process by Ohio's citizens while adequately safeguarding the election system from fraud with its heavy penalties.

Sen. Thomas A. Van Meter, R-19 Ashland, and the other Republicans on Hall's committee asserted the measure invites fraud and threatens to make a sham of elections in Ohio. "A common sense approach to this bill was not taken," said Van Meter, who offered a series of unsuccessful amendments, including the one to delete election day registration.

Under the proposal, an unregistered voter could present his driver's license or acceptable identification card to polling place officials and register on the spot.

Presently, all voters must go to a county board of election or to one of its designated branch offices and must register at least 30 days prior to an election.

Hall said he is delighted that President Carter has submitted to Congress a bill that would permit election day sign-up of voters for federal elections. The federal program could make $3.5 million available to Ohio to help cover the additional expenses the state program otherwise will entail, the Montgomery County lawmaker said.

In addition to what was described as "instant registration," the bill makes it easier to register in several other ways. It provides that it can be done at deputy motor vehicle registrar offices, door-to-door by political action groups or individuals or on post cards prescribed by the secretary of state.

Vote gives assassinations probe committee new life

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House assassinations committee, granted two years to do its work, will "lay to rest all the rumors and rumors of rumors" about the murders of John F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King Jr., its chairman promises.

A sharply divided House extended the committee's life through 1978 by a vote of 230 to 181 on Wednesday after its controversial chief counsel, Richard A. Sprague, resigned.

Chairman Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, said an unofficial count had indicated that if Sprague had not resigned, the committee might have been killed by some 20 votes. He and other panel members praised Sprague and said he had been unfairly maligned by the committee's former chairman, Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex.

Gonzalez quit the panel last month when its members and the House leadership refused to back his attempt to fire Sprague.

Stokes said he expects to obtain a $2.7 million budget this year. At one point, the panel had asked for $6.5 million. Stokes told the House the committee is pursuing new leads and talking to new witnesses. But critics demanding proof tried to force the first secret House session since the 1880s to make the panel spell out its evidence.

That effort was defeated 226 to 185 on Stokes' argument that leaks of the witnesses' names could put some of their lives in danger.

Rep. B.F. Sisk, D-Calif., complained that at a closed briefing on the evidence, "the only thing I heard was that you have evidence that X overlooked Y and Z say something."

Stokes cut short a news conference when he was asked repeatedly about his contention that a man who reportedly committed suicide in Florida on Tuesday would have been "a crucial witness."

George de Mohrenschildt, 65, a Russian-born geologist who was a friend of Lee Harvey Oswald, was found dead of a shotgun wound at his daughter's home in Manalapan, Fla., a few hours after a House assassinations committee investigator treid to see him.

Stock prices take tumble

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices continued to fall today as the market opened, adding to the previous day's sharp decline.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down more than two points in the early going, and losers held the lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts blamed a number of factors for the falling prices, including disappointment that a rally Tuesday failed to generate momentum and uncertainty over President Carter's soon-to-be unveiled energy conservation program.

Today's early prices included American Home Products, down 1/8 to 30; Westinghouse Electric, up 1/8 to 17 3/4; and Eastman Kodak, ahead 3/4 to 68.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average fell 10.80 to 921.21, its lowest close since it finished at 912.94 on Jan. 13, 1976.

It was the Dow's second biggest drop of the year, surpassed only by an 11.88 loss on Jan. 4.

Losers outnumbered gainers by more than 5-2 on the NYSE.

Big Board volume reached 18.81 million shares, against 17.03 million on Tuesday.

The NYSE's composite index dropped .58 to 53.61.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index gave up .66 to 111.24.

It was incorrectly reported in a recent article concerning the Fayette County Nurses Association's May Day breakfast, quotes from co-chairman Joyce Hidy, were actually those from the other co-chairman Shirley Tarbill. Mrs. Tarbill should also receive the credits for or originating the theme "Captivating 77", the theme for this year's breakfast and the newspaper articles as well as contacting the publishers of the "RN" magazine. The nurses association apologizes to Mrs. Tarbill for omitting her name and recognition to her ideas.

Donald Robinette Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Robinette Sr., of Jeffersonville, underwent knee surgery on Wednesday in Deaconess Hospital, Cincinnati. He is in Room 551.

Opinion And Comment

Better relations with Hanoi

Major benefits already have emerged from the presidential commission's journey to Southeast Asia. Hanoi's invitation to resume the Paris talks, and President Carter's prompt acceptance of it, encourages hope of much accelerated improvement in relations between the United States and Vietnam.

The Vietnamese government's symbolic delivery of the remains of some missing U.S. servicemen also is heartening. This gesture, as well as a pledge to cooperate in accounting for the fate of other Americans, bespeaks a conciliatory mood. It would be naive to overestimate this as a factor in the discussions to come, but for the present the signs are favorable.

As matters now stand, both Washington and Hanoi have indicated feelings of good will and a desire to move toward normalizing relations. This is only the first step, however. There is bound to be some hard bargaining as to the particulars of any new agreement reached in Paris.

The Vietnamese have left no doubt that they expect some aid. It is their position that their response on the MIA question conforms with the Paris accord ending the war, and that the United States must now honor its commitment in that accord to help "heal the wounds of war". Hanoi is anxious, too, for American support of Vietnam's admission into the United Nations.

Washington also will want some assurances as preconditions for a positive response to the Vietnamese. Judging by experience, the discussions will take a considerable amount of time. But an auspicious start has been made as a result of the Carter emissaries' successful mission.

A WORD EDGEWISE...By John P. Roche

Carter's substitute for action

PAGET, Bermuda — In addition to the sybaritic joy of sitting in 75 degree sunshine (locally disguised as something "Celsius," which I am too old and stubborn to decode), a brief escape from the Arctic wastes of New England provides some perspective on

President Carter's "honeymoon." While peacefully absorbing the view of Hamilton harbor, part of my mind has been turning over the baffling question: "What makes Jimmy Carter tick?" In ideological terms, what's his compass reading? In concrete terms, what has he accomplished?

In fairness, I should admit a certain bias. During the Democratic primary campaign last year, I followed candidate Carter's statements very closely. I never made a pilgrimage to Plains because, candidly, I am a soft touch and suspect the personable Carter would have conned me out of my shoes. But I read everything he said or released — after all, I was looking for a potential President, not a buddy.

As I indicated here, Carter was all over the map. To the extent one could generalize, his statements on foreign policy were chaotic, while on domestic matters his conditioned reflexes were conservative. True, the Constitution of the United States does not require ideological sophistication of presidents. But the more I asked myself "why" does Jimmy Carter want to be President, the more convinced I became that he had an Everest fixation. Wasn't it Sir Edmund Hillary who, asked why he climbed Mt. Everest, replied, "Because it was there."

This was hardly a unique phenomenon. John Kennedy had the same syndrome with a different accent. It is hard today to reconstruct with any atmospheric accuracy the operations of the Kennedy Administration. First, after his murder he was canonized and the lunatic myth of Camelot enshrined; then, the left and right-wing scavengers took over and turned him into a lecherous, unscrupulous imperialist. Having participated in neither festival, I feel free to say he was a charming, bright man with little ideological ballast. He loved being President.

Well, let's qualify that a bit. He loved being President, but hated tough decisions, particularly the big one on his plate: civil rights. Campaigning, he had said that discrimination in federal home mortgages could be terminated "by the scratch of a pen." We kept sending him pens — he kept sending his black Secretary of H.U.D., poor Bob Weaver, to explain that at the moment ink was in short supply.

In the spring of 1962 I braced President Kennedy politely when he was going to come down hard on civil rights — he gave me a delightful, brief exposition of states' rights! When I repeated my question, he discoursed lucidly for another quarter provided a sudden insight: Jack Kennedy liked to lecture. Indeed, it was an active substitute.

Which brings us back to President Carter, whose idea of a really creative presidential day seems to be talking with folks. I don't want to hurt his feelings (President Kennedy exploded when I accused him of "simulated activism"), but a story keeps coming to mind. Praising General Hooker to President Lincoln, someone observed, "He has his headquarters in the saddle." Old Abe meditated a moment and then drawled, "It sounds like he has his headquarters where his hindquarters ought to be."

Honeymoons are pleasant, but they also provide tips on future behavior — like who's going to make the breakfast coffee for, say, the next 50 years. Sitting here musing, and watching a lovely sloop running downwind, I think that as far as substantive policy matters are concerned Mr. Carter is not going to provide leadership — like that sloop he is going to catch the prevailing wind. Much of his activity, I suspect, will consist of playing with blocks; that is, reorganizing federal tables of organization. Plus a monthly homily on human rights — his admirable personal concern.

The implication for those who have strong policy views on matters domestic and foreign is simple. Be nice to the President, but don't count on his reacting to anything less than a Sorensen-type full gale. Like John Kennedy, he will doubtless regard pressure as unfair, but it's going to be the only game in town worth playing.

Lillian Carter raps tourists

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — First Mother Lillian Carter says her hometown of Plains has been inundated by hordes of tourists and son Billy Carter is leaving town.

Miss Lillian said Wednesday that tourists have become so bothersome since her other son, Jimmy, was elected President that she "can't even eat without someone looking at me."

She said Billy was correct when he told a travel convention this week that tourists have ruined Plains, but she added, "I don't think Jimmy intended it to be that way."

"THE PRESIDENT IS HAVING A FEW CONGRESSMEN OVER FOR LUNCH."

Ohio Perspective

Supporting solons proves expensive

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Taking care of your state legislator's needs in Columbus will average a little over $39,000 per member this year, according to figures supplied by House and Senate clerical officers.

That doesn't include the $17,500 annual salary most of the 132 members draw or their cost of living expenses which they pay on their own, with the exception of those dinners with check-grabbing lobbyists.

In the House, Executive Secretary Joseph Sommer, breaking down a two-year $9.25 million budget, found in the current fiscal year the cost of support for the 99 representatives should average about $29,000 per legislator. That includes: $15,000 each for staff salaries and mileage travel allowances; $11,800 for printing of bills and other materials, office equipment, maintenance and parking, and $2,200 for postage and telephone bills.

The mileage allowance paid out to all House members totaled almost $121,000, while telephone bills have been as high as $15,000 a month. Both areas have been the source of some controversy.

The Senate's present $5.75 million budget, minus salaries, allows for about $69,000 support for each of the 33 members over a year's time.

In addition to a secretary and clerical help, each senator is assigned administrative assistants, who are generally in a pay range of $13,000 to $14,000 annually.

The Senate travel allowance averages about $50,000 a year, according to the upper chamber's chief clerk, William Chavanne.

Sommer, a political appointee who acts as House administrator, says he is in no position to police elected officials.

"It is very difficult to put a tight type of control over the telephones," he says.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: SHE WAS A BRUNETTE BY BIRTH BUT A BLONDE BY HABIT. — ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Let your fireman rescue himself

DEAR ABBY: I'm 22, and John (not his real name) is 29. We've been dating steadily for two years.

John is a fireman paramedic, which brings me to my problem. About three months ago John's squad responded to a car accident in which a very pretty 26-year-old blonde was slightly injured (I'll call her Nancy.) Nancy wasn't seriously hurt, but she was hospitalized for 24 hours and then released. John happened to be the paramedic who treated her at the scene of the accident, and since then Nancy can't do enough to repay him for "saving her life."

She found out his name and station and wrote him a thank you letter, which I thought was very nice. But she didn't stop there. She's been dropping in to visit him at the station, bringing little gifts. She even baked him a birthday cake!

I think she's carrying her gratitude a little too far, don't you? John says he has no interest in her, but he can't stop her from coming to the station and bringing him gifts, and he doesn't want to be rude or hurt her feelings.

Should I talk to Nancy and ask her to please lay off my guy?

IN LOVE AND INSECURE

DEAR IN: He's not "your" guy. (Nobody owns anybody else.) If John wants to discourage Nancy's visits and gifts, he'll find a way. Let him handle it.

DEAR ABBY: Our first child died shortly before his second birthday. In offering condolences some of our friends said, "You'll have another one." Or, "It's all for the best." Or, "It was a blessing."

In behalf of all of us who have lost children, I have this message:

We will never again see that child who was with us for such a brief time. He wasn't just "a baby." He was an individual—entirely different from any other child we may have in the future.

If my husband were to die, I doubt that anyone would say, "You'll have another one."

Abby, please tell those well-meaning people who want to say something comforting to parents who have lost a child just to say, "I'm sorry."

I hope you find this letter worthy of space in your column.

A MOTHER for setting many of us straight.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who gave up cigarettes because his doctor said he had to. Now this friend smokes a pipe! I think he's just kidding himself and told him so. He insists that he doesn't inhale when smoking his pipe, so it's perfectly harmless. Meanwhile he's got a pipe stuck in his face all the time, and he's busy lighting it every two minutes, creating huge clouds of smelly smoke.

IS A PIPE HARMLESS?

DEAR SKEPTICAL: Only if you don't light it.

Today In History

Large grass fire doused by Sabina firefighters

A large grass fire near Allen Road was brought under control by the Sabina Fire Department Wednesday afternoon.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported that the fire is believed to have been started by Chessie System train. Sparks from the passing train apparently ignited grass on both sides of a railroad crossing.

A Chessie System spokesman told the Fayette County Sheriff's Department that a train traveling in the vicinity around 1 p.m. was experiencing mechanical trouble.

No monetary loss was reported in the blaze except for 25 railroad ties that were burned.

The field north of the railroad crossing is owned by James R. Paisley, 10752 Allen Road. The field to the south of the railroad tracks is owned by Wendell Arehart of Bowersville.

The Washington C.H. Fire Department was called to a residence at 215 Circle Ave. Wednesday night. Electric wires were rubbing together and arcing, according to the fire department. There was no fire in the building occupied by Albert Bitters. The building is owned by the United Methodist Church.

What's new at the library?

Book nook

By KATHY HALVERSON

There isn't anything these days that an ambitious person can't learn from a book. All types of skills - everything from cabinet making, furniture upholstery, wallpapering, cooking, and fixing your car to needlepoint are included in "how-to" books. There are also numerous other "how-to" books of a slightly different nature. These "how-to" books do not offer the attraction of learning a skill or saving money. They offer instead personal satisfactions and a special type of knowledge. The Carnegie Public Library has a number of this type of "how-to" books for that particular person who wants expanded horizons.

Some of the titles sound quite intriguing. Listed below are a number of the more unusual and interesting. Happy reading.

"How to Defend Yourself at Auctions" - Rubin, Leona (Westover, 1972). This was written for everyone who has ever gone to an auction and regretted it or who wanted to go but was afraid of being confused by the rapid patter of the auctioneer and the intricate procedures of bidding. It is for those who need the support of additional knowledge about what they are doing.

"How to Reire at Forty-One" - Hills, L. Rust (Doubleday, 1973). Nothing is harder work than being successfully unemployed says the author of this book. And so if one quits the rat race one must develop a post-occupational identity and replace the work ethic with a new leisure ethic.

"How to Get the Most Out of Your Social Security, Monthly Benefits" - Sciacco, Dr. Carl (Exposition Press, 1974). A concise detailed guide to computing your benefits. There are many benefits available before retirement that are often not claimed because people don't know they can receive such benefits. There are numerous charts, tables and sample calculations that will help you figure out what benefits and how much you are entitled to receive.

"How to Give and Receive Advice" - Nierenberg, Gerard (Simon, 1975). This book unlocks the hidden power within each of us to solve our own problems and stimulate creative solutions in others. It shows how to evaluate what might be useful, how to formulate advice so that it will be accepted, and how to gain from the advice you are getting.

"How to Make Your Wife Your Mistress" - Bind, Lois (Doubleday, 1972). This book is a swinging, detailed guide of what a woman wants of her mate so that they can both have a mature and exciting sex life. A companion volume to "How to Be a Happily Married Mistress."

"How to Get Control of Your Time and Your Life" - Lakein, Alan (Wyden, 1973). Secrets on how-to-get-it-done from America's foremost personal time manager. His techniques provide relief from acute time bind and a sense of being on top of one's own affairs.

"How to Divorce Your Wife" - Athearn, Ford (Doubleday, 1976). This book discusses the man's side of divorce. Man no longer has to go for blood or go for broke in getting a divorce. It demonstrates how a man can keep his sanity and his wallet intact when faced with the anxiety of impending divorce action.

"How to Double Your Child's Grades in School" - Schwartz, Eugene (Frederick Fell, 1975). Most students probably only do half as well as he/she should do in school. The difference between the class failure and top of the class is not intelligence, not ability, but simply and solely technique. This book describes that technique in every aspect.

"How to Make Yourself Miserable" - Greenburg, Dan (Random, 1966).

Expanded bingo eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's charitable bingo law would be liberalized with more groups participating in fund raising games under a bill that has cleared its first hurdle in the General Assembly.

The legislation, sponsored by Rep. Leonard J. Camera, D-53 Lorain, was approved 6-1 Wednesday by a House subcommittee. It will be returned to the full State Government Committee after being reprinted to incorporate numerous amendments.

Rep. Thomas J. Carney, D-71 Youngstown, who cast the sole dissenting vote, said the amendment to the year-old charitable law could ruin bingo in the state by allowing for a proliferation of eligible groups.

"I just don't think we ought to be promoting bingo as a method to raise funds," Carney said.

Youth athletic organizations, ethnic-American war veterans groups, art councils, historical societies and agencies for the physically handicapped would be permitted to apply for bingo licenses under the subcommittee bill.

The original law was intended to permit bonafide charities to use bingo for fund raising efforts, after obtaining licenses from the attorney general's office.

Takes the reader on a step-by-step investigation into every phase of self-torture and humiliation. They share the process of many of the methods they themselves have used so successfully. They hope that this book will be the inspiration for a truly painful, meaningless and miserable life.

"How to Get Your Share of Government Treasure" - Shaw, Gaylord (U.S. News & World Report, 1975). Information and advice on government programs and agencies which provide aid, benefit, services and assistance to the unemployed, the needy, veterans, retirees, the handicapped, etc.

"How to Go to Work When Your Husband Is Against It" - Schwartz, Felice (Simon, 1972). Dear Folks:

IT'S "ANNUAL" TIME AGAIN

for so many things we like to do!

First, our annual Easter Egg Hunt will start April 1st. A box will be placed at the door containing the percentage of discount the customer receives who finds his name in an Easter egg hidden in the store. Names will be drawn from our mailing list.

Secondly, the annual Miss Martha Washington Contest will start April 1st. Nominations will be received through April 7th. Any girl from 16 years of age to 20 may be nominated. Each dollar purchase will be one vote for the nominee of the customer's choice. The winner receives many lovely gifts and will represent the shop throughout the year, and will also be honored on our float in the Christmas parade. Contest closes May 6th.

Thirdly, as is our custom, we will honor mothers again this year. Nominations for an "outstanding" Mother of the Year will be accepted through April 7th. Each dollar purchase buys one vote for your favorite nominee. Contest closes Friday, May 6th. Saturday, May 7th, the winner will be given a special reception in our shop.

Remember — all contests start Friday, April 1st. and nominations will close April 7th. Contests close May 6th.

Come in or call and give us your selections.

Let's all have fun!

Yours,
Martie

Wedding date is June 4 for Miss Bartley, Mr. Grubb

MISS PENNY BARTLEY

Mr. and Mrs. Elza Bartley Jr. are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Penny, to David A. Grubb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Grubb, 4162 St. Rt. 35.

The bride-elect, a 1975 graduate of McClain High School, attended Clark Technical College, and is presently employed as a nurses aid at Fayette Memorial Hospital.

Her fiancé, a 1968 Miami Trace High School and Southern State College graduate, is presently employed by the Ohio Dept. of Liquor Control, Columbus.

The open church wedding is planned for June 4 in the South Side Church of Christ.

Clinic attracts many women

According to Hannah Morris, R.N., who is the coordinator for the Fayette County Health Department's breast and cervical cancer bi-monthly clinic, 25 women attended the first session which was held on March 23, at the health department. Mrs. Morris said that the participants were shown how a self-breast examination is done, viewed a film strip, were examined for breast and cervical cancer and also tested for sugar, albumin, and hemoglobin. After the examinations were completed, the women were counseled individually during an "exit interview" conducted by one of the public health nurses.

Dr. Abdial Lorente served as the examining physician and Corrine Sperry, R.N., and a volunteer from the Fayette County Unit of the American Cancer Society, donated her time. Mrs. Morris said that anyone who wants to make an appointment for the clinic, which is held on the first and third Wednesdays of each month, can call 335-5910. The clinic is free of charge.

Country Club Easter dinner

The Washington Country Club has planned an Easter dinner on Sunday, April 10 at the club. The menu will consist of baked ham with sauce, escalloped potatoes, green beans, tossed salad with dressing, chocolate or yellow cake with ice cream, rolls and butter, tea, coffee or milk.

Dinner will be served beginning at 11:30 until 1:30 p.m. Reservations must be made by Friday, April 8, at 3 p.m. by calling Mrs. Harold Osborne 335-4399 or the club at 335-3780. (There'll be no bell).

Shannon Blevins is six years-old

Shannon Blevins, six-year-old son of Mrs. Linda Blevins of 922 Lakeview Ave., was guest of honor at a birthday party Thursday. Games were won by Sherry Spradlin, Kellie McDuffen and Shannon. She then opened her pretty gifts from the little guests, and thanked everyone. Each guest was given a party sack filled with a special surprise.

Refreshments were served to Mark and Angel Blevins, her brother and sister, Shawn and Kyle Barton, her cousins, Tomi, Amy and Margie Quisenberry, Kellie McDuffen, Kelli Leaverton, Jennifer Copas, Teri Stanforth, David Fabb, Joe Barnett, Stephanie Ely, Amy Scheiver, Sherry Spradlin, Barry Harper, Kim Yambor, Scott Ramsey, David Weller, Scott Dailey, and Teresa Crawford.

Sending gifts were Teri Rose, Herbie and Kim Isles, Mrs. Stuckey, Shannon's teacher, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Blevins, Shannon's grandparents.

In the evening, a clown-shaped cake was served to Vic and Patsy Saltz, Lana Barton, Esther Knisley, the other grandmother, and Nicki Bower.

Prince Charles visits princess

LONDON (AP) — A London newspaper says Prince Charles, the heir to the British throne, was on a visit to Belgium in his warship when he took time off to have lunch with a prospective bride.

The tabloid Daily Mail, which has reported that Charles, 29, will marry 23-year-old Princess Marie-Astrid of Luxembourg, said today that the lunch took place last Dec. 8 at Laeken Palace near Brussels. Gossip columnist Nigel Dempster said that according to Belgian court circles "the meal had all the air of an engagement party."

The marriage story has been denied both by Buckingham Palace and the Royal Palace of Luxembourg.

Paint Valley Camp Fire Council Day Camp dates announced

Paint Valley Camp Fire Leaders, Inc., met in the lounge of First Presbyterian Church recently for a meeting, when all leaders present were introduced by Mrs. Carl Brady, leader chairman. All were also reminded to turn in the posters made for Birthday Week, to be judged for prizes. Miss Lynn Sanderson was given recognition for having decorated Craig's store window for Birthday Week. It was announced that $852 was collected for the annual Heart Fund Balloon Sale. Mrs. Charles Harris, Mrs. Ronald Blue, Mrs. Brady and Mrs. Bert Yarger were in charge of blowing up the balloons for the event.

"Daffodil Day" will be Friday and Saturday, and leaders desiring to assist with the project, are asked to sign up, for all proceeds will go to Cancer Research.

Permission slips along with 75 cents will admit anyone to the April 19th skating party at Roller Haven. Any amount of tickets may be purchased from a Blue Bird or Camp Fire girl or by calling the Camp Fire office. Without a permission slip, $1.00 will be charged at the door.

April 23 is "Keep America Beautiful Day." Girls may earn a disc award for this special day, for doing a good deed. Leaders must call Mrs. Fred James, Awards chairman, of the deed performed, and the number of discs to order.

The planting of trees at Camp Murdock has been suggested, since the recent fire at the camp destroyed several of the trees, both new and old. In spite of the fire, Day Camp is planned for two sessions. The first will be from June 20-24, and the second June 27-July 1. A bulletin cover contest will again be sponsored, with the winner receiving a free week at Day Camp. Judging for the bulletins will be May 2.

May 17 is Senior Citizens Day, and Camp Fire Girls will get involved by making Kleenex corsages, to be pinned on patients at local nursing homes on this day. For more information, girls may call Mrs. Allen McClung at the CF Office next week concerning this project.

The annual CF tour will be to Kings Island, May 21, and admission fee is $7.75. To qualify for a reduced rate, everyone must wear a name tag bearing "Camp Fire Girls — your name, and the date." Bus reservations will be made as soon as leaders phone information to Mrs. Blue or Mrs. Harris.

Mrs. Carmen Frogale had on display a code seal, taken from a package. These codes are found on almost every item purchased in stores. Each code is worth some time to a person on a life support machine. Mrs. Frogale volunteered to gather more information regarding this, and suggested that all leaders have groups start saving them now.

A group organization committee was formed, to go into the schools to organize new Blue Bird and Camp Fire groups. A chairman from this group will be chosen, to sit in on the CF Board meetings. The next leaders meeting is scheduled for April 26.

Leaders present were Mrs. Earl McDaniel, Mrs. Tom Grooms, Mrs. Frogale, Mrs. Whitlow Wyatt, Mrs. Theda Justice, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Blue, Mrs. Karen Anders, Mrs. Robert Engle, Mrs. Norman Moore, Mrs. Yarger, Mrs. Brady and Mrs. Allen McClung.

Clown theme prevails at birthday party

"Clowns for you-on your birthday" was the theme for little Stephen Promen's birthday party held at his home and given by his mother, Robin Promen at 1104 N. North St., recently.

Cake, ice cream and punch were served to the little guests by Carolyn Pritchett, Kathy Lyles, and Stephen's Aunt Mel. There were also treats and small games for each child.

To help Stephen celebrate his first party, those present were Lana and Taira Stepter, Mrs. Elding Lee, Tanika Lee, and Winkie Garrett, Stella, Tracy and Nikki Gray, Darlene and Mark Baker, Carolyn and Cindy Pritchett, Jody Benson, Christi Johns, Kathy Lyles, Melodie Sanders, Mary Anne Whitmore, and Mrs. Lucille Little Stephen received many nice gifts.

Carter gives support to ERA

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter has sent each member of the Florida legislature a reminder that he and wife Rosalynn strongly support the Equal Rights Amendment.

Carter, who has focused on Florida as the next state most likely to ratify the amendment, with action due next month, sent out letters about three weeks ago saying that "Rosalynn and I feel strongly about this issue."

Mark A. Siegel, Carter's deputy assistant for policy planning, said one reason the President acted far in advance of the voting was to avoid complaints of last-minute "outside interference" — an issue that arose after the North Carolina senate narrowly defeated ERA ratification in that state on March 1.

"The real hope of a breakthrough is in Florida," Siegel said in an interview. He claimed a present one-vote edge for the ERA cause in the Florida senate and a seven-vote margin in the Florida house.

In North Carolina and other states that voted on ERA earlier this year, eleventh-hour phone calls and telegrams to legislators by the President and his wife produced something of a backlash.

Siegel contended the last-minute intervention by the Carters was prompted by advice from ERA supporters in the states involved. In the case of Florida, he said, Carter decided on his own timetable.

If Florida ratifies the ERA, it will be the 36th state to do so. To become effective, 38 states must approve ERA in the next two years.

Siegel, who coordinates White House efforts on behalf of ERA, acknowledges that hope for the amendment taking effect this year has all but vanished.

Harbingers of spring abound here now, which means Carter is about due to take daughter Amy to the National Zoo. The President has promised to take her but any firm plans, if they exist, have been kept secret, presumably so father and daughter won't be swamped by onlookers when the big day arrives.

However, it has been announced that Amy, accompanied by her mother, will visit the Zoo on Saturday to accept the gift of a baby elephant from the government of Sri Lanka. Where will Daddy be?

When Carter was campaigning in New Hampshire last year, former Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox, calling himself a one-man truth squad, braved the northern snows to go around telling people Carter was lying when he said he'd done Georgia proud.

Law enforcement course ended by three Deer Creek rangers

Three rangers at Deer Creek State Park have completed an intensive law enforcement training course sponsored by the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Division of Parks and Recreation.

Neal Brady, Robert A. Kelch and John E. Monce Jr., were among the 31 members of the ranger cadet class graduating recently from the Ohio Ranger Training Academy near Zaleski, Ohio, after 10 weeks of full-time training including 320 hours of actual classroom experiences in police procedure.

The academy was administered by Commandant Edward P. Goffos under the supervision of Ralph Vanzant, chief of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources' Division of Parks and Recreation, and Robert W. Teater, director of the natural resources department.

Each ranger received certification from the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, and also received a certificate for having completed an approved Ohio Peace Officers Training Council course.

Brady, of near Jeffersonville, is a 1970 graduate of Logan High School and a 1975 graduate of Ohio State University with a bachelor of science degree in park and recreation administration. He is the campground supervisor at Deer Creek State Park.

Kelch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kelch of Hillsboro, is a 1971 graduate of Hillsboro High School and a 1976 graduate of Morehead State (Ky.) University. He is a ranger stationed at Deer Creek State Park.

Monce, a 1974 graduate of Ohio State University with a bachelor of science degree in natural resources, is also a ranger stationed at Deer Creek State Park.

Local resident conquers handicap; seeks to help others

Noting that he and Mildred never use sign language when communicating (they read lips, responding verbally), Rodgers said that he and his wife never had any children, so he doesn't know whether a child of theirs would have been born with complete hearing facilities. But, since Rodgers' deafness isn't hereditary (which sometimes is the case), and since Mildred's deafness is the result of an accident and not a condition she was born with, chances are that a child of theirs would have been able to hear.

When Rodgers was small, the rule of thumb was to teach the deaf either oral communication (speaking) or sign language. Not both. Now, the deaf are taught to do both simultaneously, plus instructed in spelling. Rodgers is a firm advocate of this method, which is called "total communication". He said that he would advise all parents, who have deaf children, to have their children taught in this manner.

The discovery of Rodgers' deafness at the early age of 18 months was a fortunate thing, since it gave him and his parents more than an adequate warning of what was to come and how the handicap was to be dealt with. But, in many instances, such early discovery is not the case. Ms. Duvall said that many parents aren't aware that their child is deaf, or has a hearing impairment, until it's just "almost too late for them to be treated or taught."

Rodgers' particular type of deafness is called "nerve deafness". Essential nerves in the ears are inoperable and apparently have been so since before he was born. "Nobody seems to know why the nerves didn't develop correctly," Rodgers remarked.

Some deafness is caused pre-natally by rubella (German measles) occurring in the pregnant women during her first three months of pregnancy. Many children, who are born to mothers who experienced rubella while pregnant, are born with hearing defects.

Because of his inability to hear, the deaf person usually has a more highly developed sense of touch. Rodgers said that he is no exception and recalled a recent incident which substantiated the fact that deaf people do have acute tactile senses. "The other day, while driving home, I thought to myself, I've got a flat tire", and two days later, I had one. I could feel it coming on."

Deaf people also have a highly developed sense of sight because they must utilize it, and depend on it, more than the hearing person. Rodgers stated, "Many deaf people make good court room witnesses because they see a lot that you (people with hearing) don't see," he said.

Because of their dependency on sight, and because they aren't distracted by noises, such as those made by a radio, Rodgers said that deaf people make very good drivers. In spite of this, he revealed that he's had a couple close calls while driving his car. "Once, I was driving down the street and I was busy looking at someone and wasn't paying attention to the traffic. All of the sudden, everyone was looking at me. I looked behind me and there was a fire truck. I pulled off fast!"

Saying that deafness is indeed terribly frustrating at times, but one learns to live with it, Rodgers commented, "I've felt resentful many times. Sometimes I would just like to pick up the phone and call somebody and talk." Which is something he has never done and will never do.

Despite his inability to use a telephone, Rodgers and his wife do have a means of communication with the outside world, and it's called a teletype machine. A typewriter-like piece of equipment, which is hooked up to the telephone, messages are typed over the line—something like sending a telegraph—rather than spoken. Laughingly, Rodgers, who said that the teletype machine is "wonderful", announced, "If somebody takes it away from me, I'll shoot myself."

Rodgers said that sometimes people are embarrassed by his deafness, but not usually. "Once during World War II, I was on a train traveling home to see my mother. I sat down by this man and we talked for about half an hour without any problems. Then, he asked me why I wasn't in the war and I told him because I was deaf. After that, we could hardly talk. He got up and left. He was embarrassed. People should learn to relax. You'll get along."

Obtaining a job is one of the biggest problems the deaf person encounters. "Some deaf people don't speak very good English," Rodgers said, adding that this might make the employer think that the deaf person is dumb which isn't necessarily the case. When Rodgers began job hunting, after graduating from the University of Denver with a degree in chemistry and math, he merely flipped through a telephone book, "A. B. C. D." looking for prospective employers. Naturally, Agrico was one of the first he came across. "I went to see them and they told me that they were very, very busy and would like to hire someone with experience. I asked them how I was supposed to get experience if no one hired me. I told them I would work for nothing, but they hired me and paid me $18 a week."

Still employed at Agrico Chemical Co., Rodgers is very active in D.E.A.F. Inc., although he jokingly claims that founder Janet Duvall "made him become active". Jokes aside, he added that one of his main goals in life was to help deaf people. And who better to help aid the deaf sector of this society than someone who knows from first hand experience what the absence of hearing is all about.

Staff seeks correct time

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The staff of the city's Redevelopment Agency has been instructed to come up with a method for telling what time it really is.

The issue arose after bidding on a $2 million contract was fouled up because a clock on the agency's wall ran 27 seconds slow.

It happened like this: Deadlines for submitting bids for a job at India Basin Industrial Park had been set for precisely 2 p.m. March 14. Four contractors had submitted their bids and bid officer Frank Cannizzaro, after confirming with dial-the-time that it was, indeed, 2 p.m., closed and locked the bid box.

But 20 seconds after the lid snapped shut, up ran a representative of Bay Cities to hand in his firm's bid. The clock on the agency wall said 1:59:33 p.m. A spokesman for the firm said Bay Cities had been relying on the agency's clock.

Agency members agreed that seemed reasonable. So they threw out all the bids, called for new ones and told the staff to develop a procedure for determining the correct time.

Bill approved for legal action

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Representatives approved 94-1 Wednesday a Senate measure which allows the attorney general to represent Ohioans who lost funds in the bankruptcy of Universal Money Order Co.

The bill, which now returns to the Senate for consideration of House changes, permits Atty. Gen William J.

Brown to seek recovery of the funds in a New York federal court.

Sen. Charles L. Butts, D-23 Cleveland, said as many as 10,000 Ohioans apparently lost $1 million or more when the bankruptcy was filed early this year.

Seven other states also are competing for Universal's assets.

AUCTION WASHINGTON C.H. PROPERTY RESIDENCE - LOT (50' x 164') SATURDAY, APRIL 2, 1977

Sells on Premises 11:00 A.M.

Located: 1212 S. Hinde Street, Washington C. H., Ohio, being Lot 38 (Half Tax $21.82) in the Baker Addition. Zoned R-2 Residential.

The one-floor-plan residence is just . . . just about beyond, however, if you are handy and wish to make a few repairs, and you do not care too much what it looks like after you get finished, we recommend you attend this sale.

So . . . since we can't put too much emphasis on the house, there may be a lot to be said about the lot. Do at least drive by and look at the "new home" next door, the flowers (may be dormant right now though) in the yard, and one of the best shade trees on S. Hinde Street, the right kind of neighbors, etc. . . . If more information is needed we have a lot . . .

TERMS: $500.00 day of sale, balance within 30 days. Possession on passing of deed.

INSPECTION: Call selling agents. Sells to the highest bidder.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — This Sunday night and on Easter Sunday, NBC is airing three-hour segments of a six-hour movie on the life of Jesus, "Jesus of Nazareth," directed by Italy's Franco Zeffirelli.

Britain's Sir Lew Grade, whose company coproduced the film with Italian TV, this week screened a 2½-hour edited version to give various clerics, critics and civilians here a rough idea of its contents.

He said that among the missing segments were Jesus' miracles, Mary Magdalene's conversion and the gathering of Christ's disciples. Then the curtains parted, the show began.

It started with the betrothal of Joseph, played by Yorgo Voragis, to Mary, played by Olivia Hussey, and from there traced the birth, life, crucifixion and resurrection of Jesus in remarkable detail.

From what I saw, the film is beautifully photographed and seems quite faithful to the Bible. Alas, its pace generally is so slow, so reverent, I fear only the very religious or patient will stick with it.

Robert Powell, a fine-featured English actor, portrays Jesus in His adult years. But save for a few occasions, he seems to be playing only a simmering mystic with a sad, firm gaze that could melt steel.

I don't think anyone would find his depiction offensive, only disappointing. Ditto Michael York, cast as John the Baptist.

York, as he goes about urging all to repent, to prepare for the coming of Christ, comes across only as a wild-eyed, raggedy character who seems convincingly tetchy, not convincingly prophetic.

Peter Ustinov, appearing in Sunday's opener, turns in a good, if somewhat familiar performance as the bejeweled, rotund, and mad Herod the Great. Rod Steiger, cast as Pontius Pilate in Easter Sunday's show, is excellent and very convincing.

Sad to say, Miss Hussey, a very talented actress, seems to have little to do in her major role as the mother of Christ except look saintly or grief-stricken, as the occasion demands.

The film is an admirable and ambitious effort.

It does try to render the story of Jesus in realistic terms, to avoid stock tableau scenes. But tighter editing, a brisker pace, might have made the film a much better effort than the one I saw this week.

Schippers battling illness

CINCINNATI (AP) — Thomas Schippers, conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, has canceled the remainder of his commitments for the year because of a persistent illness.

The 47-year-old Schippers, who has been ill since January, issued a statement from his New York office.

"I am fully aware that there has been speculation that I have lung cancer, and if I and the doctors in various parts of the world, who have been treating me, were convinced that this indeed is the definitive diagnosis, I would be the first to admit it. I have always believed it best to live with the truth."

"At this point, however, there are too many variant diagnoses for me to make any kind of definitive statement," Schippers said, adding that specialists in Switzerland have told him that "X-rays lead them to consideration of an unspecified fungus of the lungs."

The cancellations will affect a guest appearance with the Metropolitan Opera in New York and a spring tour, an appearance as a pianist with chamber music at New York's Lincoln Center and several European engagements in addition to six appearances with the Cincinnati Symphony.

Schippers also cancelled a weekend appearance with the Dallas Symphony.

Bill supports county actions

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Counties could sell or lease equipment to other levels of government without cumbersome restrictions under a bill approved 33-0 by the Senate on Wednesday.

Sponsoring Sen. M. Morris Jackson, D-21 Cleveland, said the legislation permits such sales or leases without advertising for bids and following competitive bidding procedures. The bill now goes to the House.

Here's how we fit your baby's first shoes from Stride Rite.

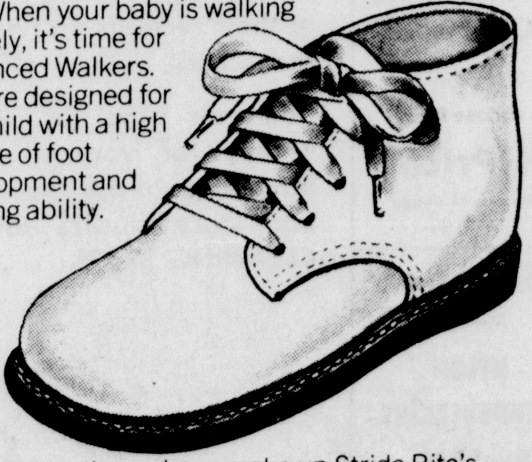

1. We start with Firsties for babies just learning to stand. Stable yet flexible soles provide a surface to balance on. And balance is the real key to walking.

2. Next come Intermediates for babies taking their first solo steps. Soles are a little firmer and provide needed stability at the heel for developing feet.

3. When your baby is walking actively, it's time for Advanced Walkers. They're designed for the child with a high degree of foot development and walking ability.

These three shoes make up Stride Rite's Progression Fitting program. They can help make learning to walk easier for your baby.

In fund-raising activity

MT students to invade local eatery Saturday

Saturday will mark the end of "Miami Trace Scholarship Week." Washington C.H. City Council and the Fayette County Board of Commissioners have issued official proclamations urging all businesses, civic groups, and residents to show their interest in "Scholarship Week" by encouraging monetary donations to the Miami Trace High School scholarship fund and by visiting Frisch's Restaurant from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

Why Frisch's? The Miami Trace High School chapter of the National Honor Society was a unique way of raising money. Members just invade a restaurant and take over the operations and receive the profits for the day. And that is exactly what will happen Saturday, except that Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mason, owners of the local Frisch's Restaurant, have agreed to allow the student members to operate their business.

The students have undergone several hours of extensive training this week and on Saturday will volunteer their services as waitresses, car hops, bus boys, dishwashers, cashiers and hostesses, everything except the actual preparation of food.

This year marks the sixth year that members of the National Honor Society has sponsored the project under the direction of advisor Fred Doyle. The Scholarship Day activity usually adds $500 plus to the Miami Trace scholarship fund.

On Saturday, the National Honor

Society will also be catering a 4-H project institute to be held at Miami Trace High School from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. As a result of fund-raising activities during the week, $2,500 is expected to be available for college scholarships for Miami Trace High School seniors.

Princess Grace christens ship

NEW YORK (AP) — The first luxury passenger ship to be christened in New York Harbor, the Cunard Princess, has been given its name by another princess in a traditional champagne christening.

"I name this ship Cunard Princess; may God bless her and all who sail in her," Princess Grace of Monaco said Wednesday as she smashed the champagne bottle on the bow of the sleek white ship.

The former Grace Kelly, who gave up a movie career to marry Prince Rainier III in 1956, smiled at the more than 300 spectators as she carefully wiped away the drops of sparkling wine that splattered on her Chanel suit.

The $60 million, Italian-built Cunard Princess is the world's newest pleasure vessel. Officials of the London-based Cunard Line said they thought it fitting to have their Princess christened by Princess Grace, accompanied by her teen-age son, Prince Albert.

PUCO sets meet on utility shutoffs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio was to meet today to discuss how it will deal with the possibility of mass utility shutoffs beginning Friday.

On Jan. 25 the PUCO issued an order that prohibited gas utilities from disconnecting service for any reason including nonpayment of bills. That order expires Friday and there are predictions that more than 100,000 residential gas customers around the state may lose their gas service.

Musical plans please directors

Scenes are being blocked and lines are being learned for the upcoming Washington Senior High School spring musical, "The King and I." The progress is overwhelming according to directors Kathy Wallace and Nancy Gosenell. Both are pleased with cast performances and expect an excellent show.

Not only are high school students involved in the musical, but 15 elementary students also have parts. The students will play the royal princes and princesses in the musical. Miss Wallace, who heads the music department at Eastside Elementary School, held tryouts among her students to fill the parts.

The children's major part is in the schoolroom scene where Anna (played by Sue Stapleton) sings "Getting to Know You."

The children are Missie Beamer, Viann Cales, Sheryl Duffy, Jerry Gault, Harold Grimm, Stephanie Justice, Lisa Leslie, Joelle Libscomb, Denise Martin, Kelly McConkey, Shelly Morgan, Missy Myers, Shelly Templin, Todd Thomas, and Beth Van Dyke.

The musical will be presented April 22 and 23 in the Middle School Auditorium.

"The King and I," centers around an English schoolteacher, who has accepted the job of teaching the royal children of the King of Siam.

Anna Leonowens, the schoolteacher, is a bit too arrogant for the all-powerful King. Despite the conflicting personalities of the two main characters, they eventually fall in love.

Besides the familiar tune "Getting to Know You," popular songs such as "Whistle a Happy Tune" and "Hello Young Lovers" will be performed by the cast.

The faculty squad included Gary Shaffer, Rick Crooks, Dennis Wollam, Paul Ondrus, Steve Ross, Dale Lynch, Maurice Pfeifer, and Kenneth Hayes. The victorious student team was composed of Kenny Upthegrove, Mark Heiny, Jeff Estep, Jeff Deweese, Bryan Connell, Scott Johnson, Jerry Brinkles, Bret Shaw, John Fields, and Randy Aills.

If you didn't go to the basketball game, you missed an action-packed game. Featured were two tough teams; it was the night of the student-faculty game at Washington Senior High School.

The student team, coached by Dee Hart Foster and Tom Dean, edged out the faculty, 80-79. The faculty team was coached by Donald Gibbs.

OUCH — Here's a difficult course for Washington Senior High School students. Bret Hunt (the kicker) and Ruffin Haithcock (the kicke) practice the martial arts. The course is run by students in their spare time and is not actually a part of the regular high school curriculum.

Westerville principal dies

WESTERVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Funeral services are scheduled Friday for Westerville junior high school Principal Harold R. Carrick who died Monday. He was 53.

Authorities said Carrick's body was found in his car Tuesday morning. He apparently died en route from Gahanna to Westerville. Authorities said Carrick apparently died of natural causes. He had a history of diabetes and last year suffered a mild stroke. An autopsy was to be performed.

Carrick had been principal at Walnut Springs Junior High School for the past 11 years. Formerly he was a junior high school principal in Marysville and Huron County.

WSHS Seniors of the Week

Thomas Neal Dean is our first featured senior of the week. He is the son of Chester and Barbara Dean of 1345 Yellowbud Place. Tom has one older brother, Danny, 18, who is a freshman at Miami University, and a younger sister, Dinah, 13.

Tom is enrolled in the college preparatory program this year. He is taking American Government, Social Psychology, Individual Survival, English Composition, English Literature, and Physical Education.

Tom is very active in sports. He has been a member of the Blue Lions football, basketball, and baseball teams for the past three years. He has been a member of the Lettermen's Club for two years and serves as treasurer this year. He also has been a member of the Hi-Y Club and the cast of "Annie Get Your Gun", and he will be in the "King and I".

As a result of Tom's football ability, he was selected all-league and all-district second team this year. Tom's future plans include going to Otterbein College and majoring in either Physical Education or Journalism. He would also like to play football in college.

Another featured senior of the week is Kim Eckles. She resides at 1406 Washington Ave. with her parents Don and Joan Eckles, and her brothers and sisters, Dirk, 19; Keith, 15; Jennifer, 11; and Becky, 8.

Kim's courses this year include, American Government, Algebra, Family Living, Home Economics non-major, English Composition, English Literature, Physical Education, and Band.

In her spare time Kim enjoys painting and bike-riding. Kim is a member of AFS, Senior Y-Teens, and the Sunburst staff. She is also a member of the girls Volleyball and basketball teams. In volleyball, she was chosen as the most improved player and she also made the All-SCOL honorable mention list in volleyball.

Kim is listed in "Who's Who among American High School Students" and she plans to attend the Springfield School of Nursing.

Jeff Estep, the final senior of the week, is the son of Betty and Chester Estep, 902 Pearl St. He has two sisters, Karen and Debbie, who live away from home.

This year Jeff has chosen college preparatory courses.

Jeff's hobbies are tennis and baseball. He is a member of the Blue Lion baseball team and has received varsity letters. He also plays for the First Christian Church Softball team. Jeff's future plans are to attend

Columbus Technical University and major in electronics or printing. "High school can be fun if you want it to be, but there's a time for work and time for fun. If you don't mix the two up, you'll be alright," was Jeff's advice to the underclassmen.

New instant lottery game begins April 5

Ohio Lottery Director Gerald J. Patronite has announced April 5 as the first day of sale for the new $1 Ohio instant lottery game.

Patronite said, "It should be very obvious on Tuesday that millions of Ohioans from every walk of life love this game. The public's only complaint about it is that it ends too soon. We are proud to offer it again."

A player can win the instant lottery immediately, and any player can enter four losing tickets in a series of special televised bonus drawings.

Patronite noted that the first instant game "proved to be a big winner for Ohio since it produced nearly $23 million revenue for the state in 10 weeks and it recycled some $29 million back into the state economy in the form of prizes and commissions."

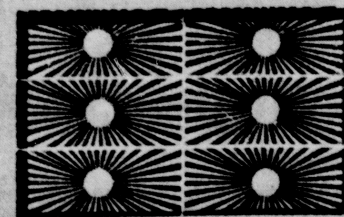

Patronite, the world's youngest lottery director, expects sales of the second game to top $55 million.

To win cash a player simply rubs away the opaque mask which covers six small boxes containing prize amounts. If three identical prize boxes are found, the player wins the dollar amount matched.

The second instant lottery game has a prize structure that features an average of one ticket in nine being a cash winner and paying $2, $5, $10, $1,000, or $10,000 to the holder of the ticket. Winners of $2, $5, and $10 can redeem their tickets instantly at any licensed Ohio Lottery Sales Agent and the tickets will automatically be entered into a grand prize drawing which will produce a top winner of $1,000 a week for life (a minimum guarantee of one million dollars). A runner-up of $50,000 and a third prize of $25,000, as well as seven prizes of $2,500 and 290

On the average, 1 in 9 tickets wins. Using edge of coin, gently rub all 6 spots below. If the same prize amount appears under 3 separate spots on this ticket, you win that prize.

WIN $1,000-A-WEEK-FOR-LIFE!
($1,000,000 guaranteed)
$1,000-A-Week-For-Life Grand Prize drawn from winning $2, $5, and $10 redeemed tickets.
WEEKLY TV BONUS - TOP PRIZE $50,000!
To enter send 4 non-winning instant lottery tickets to TV Bonus, B.O. 5510, Cleveland, Ohio 44101. Watch LOTTERY TV SHOW every Thursday to see if you win.

NEW INSTANT TICKET

prizes of $100 will also be awarded.

Prizes of $100, $1,000, and $10,000 must be claimed at one of the seven regional lottery offices in Canton, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton, Marietta, or Toledo.

In the televised bonus drawing portion of this lottery, a player can send four losing tickets to Post Office Box 6510 only, Cleveland, Ohio 44101, and perhaps become the winner of $50,000, $10,000, $5,000 or one of 37 winners of $1,000.

4-H roundup

By JEANNIE ANDERSON
4-H Program Assistant

Everything from a tube of toothpaste to the most expensive luxury car has been designed for usefulness, convenience and eye appeal.

These have been designed by professionals. But I believe there's enough of the designer in everyone to decorate a bare room or select a new wardrobe. All it takes is a little imagination, thoughtfulness and awareness.

To develop a new stimulate of awareness in design try your skill in fabric painting. For many years we weren't aware of the potential of the vast color range and how it could affect our lives. When color finally emerged, it stimulated a whole new world to explore. Through the media, color moved in all around us. Magazines, T.V., advertising, even automobiles gave way to brilliant coats.

Painting designs on fabric an ideal 4-H project - and one you will enjoy because it appeals to all age groups. 4-H'ers can paint designs on their jeans and jackets, creating truly fantastic clothes.

To start your painting, you'll need a watercolor brush and a set of acrylic paints. The best fabrics to use are denim, cotton or unbleached muslin. Wash any new fabric first or the paint will disappear the first time you wash your painted fabrics.

Municipal Court

Three men arrested Tuesday night by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department for disorderly conduct by intoxication received fines in Washington C.H. Municipal Court Wednesday.

Judge John P. Case fined Dale L. Sharpe, 530 Third St., and Roger E. Sharpe, Hillsboro, $50 each. The third man, Gary L. Howland, Warren, was fined $25.

MT Lunch Menu

Week of April 4-8

Monday - Luncheon meat sandwich, French fries, sliced pears, cookie and milk.

Tuesday - Chili soup (crackers), peanut butter sandwich, carrots-celery, chilled fruit and milk.

Wednesday - Hot dog on bun, baked beans, spinach, fruit cobbler and milk.

Thursday - Easter Vacation.

Friday - Easter Vacation.

Gas category for schools eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Ohio's schools would fall into their own natural gas curtailment category under a bill introduced Wednesday by Rep. Charles R. Saxbe, R-75 Mechanicsburg.

Schools fell within the commercial-industrial category during the severe winter which forced many across the state to close for varying periods of time.

Saxbe's bill establishes an "education" category which is the second priority, just behind the top-rated human needs classification.

The third class would be non-substitutable commercial and industrial, or those which cannot switch to alternate fuels, while the lowest priority would be substitutable commercial-industrial.

Reductions in curtailments would follow the same priority scheme under the Saxbe proposal which is similar to one endorsed earlier by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Select your design. If you can't come up with an original design on your first try, copy a design you like. Draw this design with chalk on dark fabric or with pencil on light fabric. Limit your colors to three. Thin the paint with water to the consistency of heavy cream. Pin down your work with thumbtacks. For double thicknesses like T-shirts, insert cardboard, or you'll paint both front and back. It's very important to wash brushes thoroughly between colors. Apply the paint in three thin coats. Allow each coat to dry thoroughly before the next coat.

Before wearing, allow item to dry several days, then wash them in lukewarm water and mild soap or detergent. There are many different craft projects being done today in 4-H.

It's a skill that you can apply to other decorative processes such as decorating furniture (including antiques), or leather, tinware, woodenware, textiles, wall graphics. It's a skill that could also lead into woodworking projects, printmaking, paper mache, and collage.

A creative art 4-H project has much to offer. For more information about joining a 4-H club call the County Extension Office at 335-1150.

Traffic Court

A number of waivers were signed in Washington C.H. Municipal traffic Court Wednesday.

John H. Cooper, 70, Cedarville, signed a $40 waiver for driving left of center. Stephen Williamson, 22, Greenfield, signed a $35 waiver on a similar charge.

Shirley S. Zugg, 28, of 927 Briar Ave., signed a $35 waiver for a stop sign violation, and Daniel J. Belpen, 27, Cincinnati, signed a $25 waiver for hitchhiking.

Speeding waivers were signed by Darrell E. Roberts, 32, New Holland, $30; Norman R. Randall, 33, Columbus, $30; Thomas L. Selvage, 29, Greenfield, $35; and Charles F. Hughes, 41, Grove City, $25.

On Thursday, Bradley J. Kirkpatrick, 18, New Holland, signed a $35 waiver for driving left of center and a $30 waiver for speeding.

Phillies drop to second

Pittsburgh to regain NL East crown

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Some fans think the Philadelphia Phillies won last year's National League East pennant because of Manager Danny Ozark. Others think they won it despite him.

Whichever way you lean, you've got to admit they had a pretty impressive roster in 1976. That list has been sharply altered with the departure of two names. If the change is sufficiently drastic, the Pittsburgh Pirates may regain the divisional title.

It appears the latter half of the season will be made up of a trio of two-team races. The first will be between the two Pennsylvania clubs, the second between the St. Louis Cardinals and New York Mets for third place, the third between the Montreal Expos and Chicago Cubs trying to avoid the cellar.

The Phils' sluggers are still there, like Mike Schmidt (major league-leading 38 home runs) and Greg Luzinski (.304 average, 21 homers). So are the spray hitters, like Garry Maddox (.330 average) and Jay Johnstone (.318). So are the big-winning pitchers, like Steve Carlton (20-7) and Jim Lonborg (18-10). So are the reliable relievers, like Gene Garber and Tug McGraw.

And there are a few new faces, like Richie Hebner and Ted Sizemore.

It's those two new names which raise the big questions. They're replacing two big names.

Hebner succeeds the controversial, yet productive Dick Allen, who figures to occasionally menace American League pitchers for equally controversial Charles O. Finley and his Oakland A's.

Allen was never a premier first baseman—but he may well have done the job better than Hebner will do it. The former Pittsburgh third baseman hasn't played first since his minor league days. And Hebner's bat will never be mistaken for Allen's.

Sizemore takes over for Dave Cash, who grumbled his way through the 1976 season because he felt the Phils weren't compensating him sufficiently for his contributions, then took the free-agent route north to Montreal. Sizemore's glove is adequate to fill the second base job. His bat leaves a lot to be desired when matched up with Cash's.

But more important than either of those measuring sticks is the absence of Cash's leadership. He unquestionably was the holler guy, the field boss, the man who transformed a bunch of individuals into a team. The Phils don't seem to have anyone around whom they can rally. They may well become a rudderless ship again.

The Pirates, now with Chuck Tanner as manager, have been winners of the NL East flag in five of the eight seasons divisional play has existed. They've never finished lower than third in that span and were second to the Phils last year.

Pittsburgh may suddenly have one of the best mound staffs in the division with a couple of major bullpen additions. Rich Gossage and Terry Forster had dreadful records with the Chicago White Sox last year—but are capable of bouncing back. And Grant Jackson provides another important arm, joining Kent Tekulve. The starters are already there—John Candalaria, Jim Rooker, Bruce Kison and Jerry Reuss.

Tanner's arrival in Pittsburgh was the result of one of the more bizarre trades in baseball history, a player-for-manager deal. When Tanner left Oakland—where he still had a year to run on a contract—Finley wanted something in return. "If I'm gonna run a school for managers, I'm gonna get paid for it," he said. What he got from the Pirates was $100,000 and a top-flight catcher, Manny Sanguillen.

That leaves Pittsburgh's No. 1 catching job with Duffy Dyer, never more than a reserve. With a glove, he's capable, but he's never shown much with a bat.

With Hebner gone, the Pirates are hoping to convert outfielder Bill Robinson or former Oakland second baseman Phil Garner into a third baseman, playing in an infield with aging-but-still-potent Willie Stargell and still-young Rennie Stennett and Frank Taveras. And with Richie Zisk gone in the Forster-Gossage deal, Al Oliver and Dave Parker figure to be joined in the outfield by Robinson (if he doesn't beat out Garner at third), and Omar Moreno or Miguel Dilone, both of whom are speed merchants and are rated future stars.

The Cardinals are hard to figure. They've got their share of consistent, competent people like Bake McBride, Ted Simmons, Lou Brock, Mike Anderson and, via the trade route, Ken Reitz. They've got pitchers capable of winning or saving a healthy chunk of games, like John Denny, Pete Falcone, Bob Forsch, Al Hrabosky and, via the trade route, Larry Dierker, who was injured in spring training.

But with that kind of talent, St. Louis blew hot and cold last year. The league's fourth-best batting average was overshadowed by the league's eighth-best pitching average and 11th best fielding average.

When it came to the squeakers, the Cards were nowhere, winding up at the bottom in the league with a 21-37 record in one-run games, which means those clutch hitters aren't coming through in the clutch or the savers aren't saving. Without a major facelift, Manager Vern Rapp's troops seem destined to trudge along with a .500 season as the only realistic goal.

The Mets of 1977 are like the Mets of the last half-dozen seasons—all arms but no punch.

Few teams have a trio of starters like Tom Seaver, Jerry Koosman and Jon Matlack. But for too long those three have had to carry the team. And the load gets awfully heavy as the long season drags on.

The Mets led the league in pitching—but batted only .246, ahead of only Atlanta and Montreal, two last-place teams. Dave Kingman was their own legitimate slugger.

Unless Lee Mazzilli, Mike Vail, Leo Foster or some of their other newer players can come through with hitting for average, and unless Jackson Todd, Craig Swan and a few of the other promising pitchers can step in and give the big three a rest, the Mets are unlikely to do anything more than make things interesting up until All-Star time.

The Expos have made a major addition with the arrival of second baseman Cash. Even more than his solid hitting is his solid reputation as a guy who can turn others into believers. That alone may bring Montreal perhaps half a dozen additional victories. Another good acquisition is first baseman Tony Perez from Cincinnati. He's no kid, but he can bring stability and experience.

The same might be said of Dick Williams, a man once used to managing winners in Boston and Oakland but more recently used to staggering along with the California Angels.

With a mediocre pitching staff—including newcomers Will McEnaney, Jackie Brown and Bill Greif—and without many consistent hitters, the Expos are once again going nowhere. But at least they'll look prettier doing so. They're playing in a new home, the Olympic Stadium.

The Cubs had two superstars last year in Bill Madlock, two-time NL batting champion, and Rick Monday. Now they've got none. They dealt Madlock and his contract demands to San Francisco for Bobby Murcer and sent Monday to Los Angeles for Bill Buckner and Ivan DeJesus.

Those arrivals, along with Greg Gross from Houston, will do little to provide Chicago with punch. And the same old pitchers—young Bruce Sutter is the only bright spot—will do little to soften the opposition punches.

Herman Franks, the manager of four runner-up teams in San Francisco during the 1960s and briefly in 1971 coach of the third-place Cubs under Leo Durocher, is getting his first shot at managing what may end up as a last-place team.

Fidrych scheduled for surgery

Rookie's comeback leads Giants in Cactus League

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

If Randy Elliott goes hitless in his next 12 at-bats, he will be batting a mere .500. That is not too shabby an outlook for someone who sat out the 1976 season following a shoulder separation and was not sure he ever would get another chance to play major league baseball.

Elliott's spring training saga has got to rate as one of the great rag-toriches stories of all time.

A player knows he has it made when he can get two hits and his batting average drops 15 points to .643, which is what happened to Elliott Wednesday when the San Francisco Giants blanked the Oakland A's 5-0 in an exhibition game. Elliott knew he had it made when the Giants tore up his minor league contract following the game and promoted him to the varsity roster.

Elliott, a 25-year-old outfielder, was a No. 1 draft choice of San Diego in 1971 and spent parts of the 1972 and 1974 seasons with the Padres. But they released him after his 1975 shoulder injury, and so did the California Angels.

He spent last summer jogging on the beaches near his southern California home and wondering if he would get another chance. The Giants sent him to the Arizona winter instructional league, where he batted .311 and was on his way.

"I hadn't tried to hit a baseball in six months, but it all came back to me," Elliott said. "I knew if I didn't have a heck of a spring training I'd be back in Triple A ball. I figured this was my last time around to get a chance to make the big leagues."

Elliott has 27 hits in 42 spring at-bats. He also made a running shoe-string catch to preserve Wednesday's shutout after the A's loaded the bases in the eighth inning.

Another nonroster rookie also was in the spotlight. Detroit's Dave Rozema hurled eight innings as the Tigers nipped the New York Mets 1-0.

Rozema, a 20-year-old right-hander who was invited to camp after a 12-4 record and 1.57 earned run average in the Class AA Southern League last season, became the first Detroit pitcher to go eight innings. In five appearances, his 25 innings, 1.80 ERA and 16 strikeouts are tops on the club.

Rozema may be this year's Mark "The Bird" Fidrych, who was scheduled to undergo knee surgery today and is expected to be out about two months.

In other developments, third baseman Graig Nettles agreed to return to the New York Yankees after a two-day absence over a contract hassle, the Cincinnati Reds said they would not bow to holdout Pete Rose's threat to boost his $400,000 demand by $25,000 a month if he is not signed by opening day, the Cleveland Indians asked waivers on veteran first basemen Boog Powell and the Giants signed Willie McCovey, another aging first baseman, as a free agent.

Back on the field, Nolan Ryan hurled seven strong innings as the California Angels defeated the Seattle Mariners 5-3. Reggie Smith's two-run homer in the seventh inning enabled the Los Angeles Dodgers to beat the St. Louis Cardinals 7-6 and Dick Ruthven worked six sharp innings in the Atlanta Braves' 3-2 triumph over the Montreal Expos.

Jorge Orta's two-run ninth-inning homer off Rich Gossage gave the Chicago White Sox a 7-5 decision over the Pittsburgh Pirates, two-run homers by Gene Tenace and Doug Rader powered the San Diego Padres past the Milwaukee Brewers 8-5 and Chris Chambliss delivered four runs with a homer and sacrifice fly as the New York Yankees beat the Boston Red Sox 8-5.

John Wathan's ninth-inning single enabled the Kansas City Royals to nip the Philadelphia Phillies 5-4. Mark Belanger's two-run single helped the Baltimore Orioles down Cincinnati 6-4 despite two homers by the Reds' Johnny Bench and the Texas Rangers defeated the Toronto Blue Jays 5-2 behind the four-hit pitching of Carl Morton and Nelson Bires.

Rod Carew's two-run single with two out in the ninth inning overcame a pair of two-run homers by Houston's Cliff Johnson and gave Minnesota a 5-4 victory over the Astros that snapped the Twins' seven-game losing streak, and Larry Biittner drilled four hits and Steve Swisher drove in three runs as the Chicago Cubs beat the Cleveland Indians 9-4.

150 children barred from Little League?

This headline, without a question mark, may well appear in the Record-Herald next week.

With Little League tryouts scheduled for Saturday, the league still needs 10 more team coaches. Unless adults willing to serve as coaches step forward in the next few days, these teams may be dropped from the 1977 baseball program.

If this happens, as many as 150 youngsters who enrolled in the program this summer will be unable to participate.

Despite the fact that the number of children playing each year has increased steadily in the recent past, coaches have become more and more difficult to find.

"Unless a number of coaches volunteer within the next few days, there doesn't seem to be any alternative but to dissolve some of the teams," said John Lachat, Little League president.

"Although we would hate to see this happen, we just can't give the kids bats and balls with adult supervision," he added.

The Washington C.H. Little League program has enjoyed a long and happy history. It would be a shame to see it falter because there were not enough parents and other adults interested in the youngsters of our community.

While there is a constant clamor for increased recreational activities for youth and family entertainment, one of the oldest recreational programs in the area is being endangered by lack of adult interest.

Only with your help can this be avoided. Anyone willing to coach a Little League team this summer should contact John Lachat (335-7498 or 437-7308) or Willis Geyer (335-2632 or 335-4333) as soon as possible. The program depends on your response.

Cleveland releases Boog Powell

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Dennis Eckersley will be on the mound and Bill Melton's hot bat is sure to be somewhere when the Cleveland Indians launch their 1977 campaign at Boston April 7. But big Boog Powell will be missing.

Powell, who was released by the Indians Wednesday, said he was disappointed but not bitter—although he was unhappy about some things that have been said about his weight.

"Nobody complained about my weight when I was hitting 27 home runs (in 1975). Then I wasn't too heavy," Powell said.

Several clubs have expressed interest in Powell.

McGuire provides refreshing change from Lombardi, Woody

NEW YORK (AP) — There's nothing wrong with college sports that a few more Al McGuire's wouldn't cure.

Gusts of fresh air swept through the TV tubes Monday night when Al McGuire's Marquette team beat the University of North Carolina for the NCAA basketball championship.

It wasn't that North Carolina or its highly-respected coach — Dean Smith, who brought back the Olympic gold medal from Montreal — was cast in a villainous role.

It was only that McGuire — volatile, emotional, earthy and without an ounce of pretentiousness — offered such a contrast to the normal highpressure and disciplined mold that it was difficult for the unbiased observer not to stand up on the living room chair and cheer.

All of us have been over-exposed to the martinet, the Marine syndrome — barking orders, cracking the whip and treating the game as if it were a war.

The late Vince Lombardi became the revered symbol of this approach when, in the midst of winning two Super Bowl titles with his Green Bay Packers, he said, "Winning isn't everything — it is the only thing."

Ohio State's legendary Woody Hayes can be a warm, pleasant human being at a cocktail party or in the living room. Put him on the football field in a critical game and he often reverts to a madman — tearing his shirt, smashing his wrist watch and belting photographers.

"Winning is only important," says McGuire, "in war and surgery."

everyone involved in his tenure as Wilmington coach.

Contacted Monday by the Wilmington News-Journal, Wilt said simply that he was "going to do some other things, not just coaching for a change."

Wilt served as a Wilmington coach for nine years, the last four as head coach. He compiled a 25-14-1 record.

Wilt is the fourth SCOL resignation this year. Earlier, Mike Doyle stepped down from his Hillsboro football coaching duties, Circleville basketball coach Jim Bailey resigned, and Greenfield McClain athletic director Fred Raibe submitted his letter of resignation.

Wilt resigns at WHS

Wilmington head football coach and athletic director Ron Wilt has resigned his duties on the gridiron, effective at the conclusion of the present school year.

Wilt will remain athletic director at Wilmington.

In a letter dated Mar. 9, Wilt submitted his resignation by stating, "This has been a most difficult decision for me to reach. However, I have come to the point where the job has become a burden rather than a pleasure. I feel that I am leaving the football program in a very stable condition, and I anticipate continued success for the next few years."

Girls state finals begin tomorrow

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Toledo Central Catholic and Springfield North, a pair of young teams with undefeated records, go against more experienced Columbus Walnut Ridge and Mentor Friday night in the Ohio Class AAA girls high school basketball semifinals.

Central Catholic, the coaches' tournament favorite, has rolled past 21 straight opponents with three starting sophomores. The Fighting Irish face 17-1 Walnut Ridge, whose three seniors and two juniors have played at least two years together.

Springfield North has posted a 23-0 mark with only one senior regular. Against Mentor, 194, the Panthers test a veteran lineup of three seniors and two juniors.

The four are after the first AAA title won last year by Toledo Woodward, eliminated early this time by Central Catholic.

The Class A semifinalists launch the marathon Friday sessions in St. John Arena on the Ohio State University campus.

Mansfield St. Peter's, 14-5, the first school to place its boys and girls in the semifinals in the same season, takes on Lancaster Fisher, 20-4, at 9:30 a.m. Delphos St. John's, 22-0, the coaches' favorite, plays Arcanum, 16-0, at 11:30 a.m.

In the Class AA semifinals, Springfield Northwestern, 16-1, battles Pemberville Eastwood, 16-3, at 2:30 p.m. while Campbell Memorial, 18-6, draws the coaches' title choice, Warsaw River View, 21-0, at 4:30 p.m.

Central Catholic relies on its forwards, 5-foot-9 Kristi Gordon and Peggy McCarthy, for 30 of its points per game. Miss Gordon averages 17 points and Miss McCarthy 13.

"But we've got good scoring balance and good defense. We play whatever defense we need," said Frances Krompak, the Toledo coach.

Three seniors, Mollie Perdue, Cindy McKnight and Wendy West, have led Walnut Ridge to 7-4, 15-1 and 17-1 records the last three seasons.

"I have good players. That's the secret. They know how to win," said Carol Smith, the Scots' coach. Two juniors lead Walnut Ridge, 5-8 Pat Harris averaging 19 points and Lynn Callander 18.

Springfield North attributes its state berth to a 1-2-2 zone defense and accurate outside shooting. The Panthers' ringleader is 6-0 junior center Sandra Fullen with 15.2 points and 16.0 rebounds a game.

North also has fine speed with 5-8 junior guard Tonette Browning, the reigning AAA state 220-yard track champion. Miss Browning and her twin sister Lizette, were part of the school's 880 relay unit that ranked third nationally last spring.

Mentor, second in its league during the season, will be strengthened by the return of 511 Tracey Evans. The junior forward missed most of tournament action with a gimpy ankle.

"She should be much stronger this week," Mentor Coach Alice Khol said of her star, who carries a 19-point average.

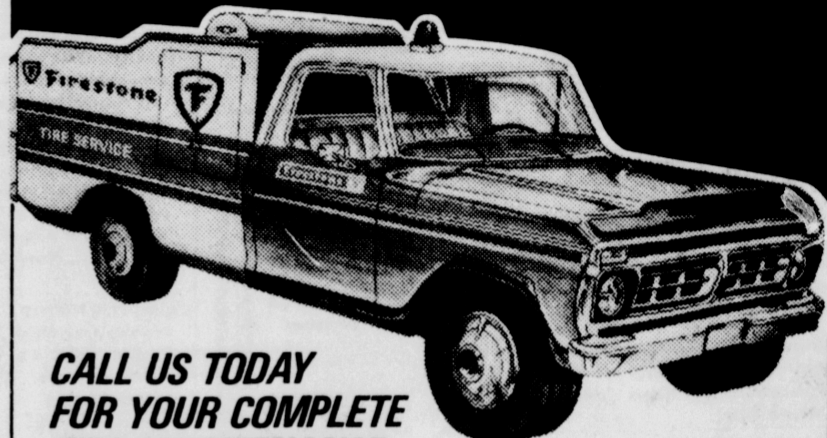

Cauten to ride at Latonia

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — Apprentice jockey sensation Steve Cauten, who will make a homecoming appearance Friday night at Latonia, has been nominated to ride in six of the eight races.

The 16-year-old Cauten is the nation's leading jockey, with 183 winners so far this year.

PROJECT SCHEDULED — Charles Moore, representative of Mac Tools, Inc. which donated money to the Fayette County unit of the American Cancer Society, is pictured with Wilma Clark and Donna Craig, co-chairmen of the upcoming Daffodil Days which will be held on April 1 and 2.

'Daffodil Days' project scheduled

...when suddenly I saw a crowd, a host of golden daffodils. . . which was written by William Wordsworth (1770-1850) reflects the sentiments of Fayette Countians who will contribute to the American Cancer Society by purchasing the yellow flower during the fourth annual "Daffodil Days" project on April 1 and 2.

The Fayette County unit of the American Cancer Society, in cooperation with Beta Omega chapter of the Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority, of Washington C.H., will be selling the daffodils at several locations.

In 1974, Mrs. Harry Haines introduced "Daffodil Days" to Fayette County and at that time 25 units participated in the event. Last year, 58 units took part and a total of 6,048 flowers were purchased, resulting in a gross profit of $1,200.

Mrs. Donna Craig, philanthropic chairman for Beta Omega, will chair the event. She will be assisted by Mrs. Wilma Clark, co-chairman.

The daffodil was chosen because it "brings a sense of hope and renewal of life" to cancer patients. A donation of 25 cents will be asked for one daffodil, and a donation of $2.50 for a dozen daffodils.

The following groups, listed with their advisors, will be selling daffodils: Scissors and Saucers 4-H Club, Mrs.

Norman Wissinger and Mrs. Lowell Douce; Blue Bird groups: Sure Footers, Ailene Nichols; Happy Blue Belles, Mrs. Gigi Frogale; Eastside Carnations, Brenda Long; Minnie Ha Ha, Emma Knisley; Nice Blue Birds, Mrs. Margaret Engle; Jolly Blue Birds, Debbie Blakely; Busy Blue Birds, Glenda Sheets, Sunshine Blue Birds, Joann Brady; Happy Star Bells Blue Birds, Cyndi Morton; Rainbow

Blue Birds, Beulah Curnutte.

Camp Fire groups: Tan Da, Bonnie Blue; Wicaka Manuka, Karen Anders; Wa Di Ta Ka Ah Ne Ah, Carrie Ferguson; Da Kon Ya, Lynn Sanderson; Ke Ho Fo An Ge Ta Ha, Helen Root; Rose Avenue, Chick-A-Dees, Martha Moore; Tawanka, Shirley Harris; Wisa Loho Wedo Luta, Dorothy Sanderson.

Former resident honored as outstanding educator

WOOSTER, Ohio — A former Washington C.H. resident has been named as one of the "1977 outstanding young educators" at Wooster.

Mrs. Melinda (Mindy Shaw) Wise, an elementary teacher in the special education program of the Wooster School District, recently received the honor.

Mrs. Wise, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Byers W. Shaw, 436 Jupiter St., earned a bachelor of arts degree in 1974 from the College of Wooster, graduating with departmental honors in sociology. She has been a special education instructor at Wayne Elementary School in Wooster for the past three years.

After completing her student teaching in Portland, Ore., Mrs. Wise joined the Wooster School District faculty in 1974. She worked throughout her four years in college as an Ida Sue volunteer, participating in classroom work and in extra-curricular activities with students in the program. The Phi Beta Kappa member was affiliated with various campus organizations, and since her junior year in college has served as a big sister in the College of Wooster's Big Brother-Sister program.

She has been a volunteer for the American Cancer Society and the March of Dimes, as well as at Boys Village, and was a counselor at a local camp for special education students in 1972. Mrs. Wise served for two years as treasurer for the Fayette County Council on Exceptional Children, and also served as membership chairman for the organization for one year.

Mrs. Wise has been a member of the Christian Business and Professional Women's organization for two years, is active in the Westwood Baptist Church, and has served on the reading series and on special education curriculum committees of the Wooster School District. She has also completed graduate work at Akron University.

Her husband, Jeff, is a teacher at Waynedale High School. The couple resides in Wooster.

Pill, cigarettes bad combination

NEW YORK (AP) — Women over 40 who use birth control pills and smoke run a much higher risk of heart attacks than those who use the pills but don't smoke.

Women in their 40s who smoke more than 15 cigarettes a day die of heart attacks or blood clots nearly 12 times more frequently than those who don't smoke at all.

These were the major findings of a new study of mortality risk and oral contraception that was reported Tuesday by research analyst Andrukh K. Jain of The Population Council.

Jain, summing up his study, said: "The safety of the pill should be considered separately for smokers and nonsmokers because the effects are different."

"Women over 40 who take the pill and do not smoke are not exposed to substantially higher risk of death."

Jain and others at a news conference said they did not know what physical mechanism would account for the excess mortality among pill users who smoke.

The Jain study found that the annual mortality rate from heart attacks and blood clots for women aged 40-44 who use oral contraceptives but do not smoke is seven per 100,000 — or roughly a third the risk of death from pregnancy and childbirth among women who use no birth control.

But the pill users in this group who do smoke face a mortality risk of 59 per 100,000, the Jain study found. And among heavy smokers — more than 15 cigarettes a day — the risk is 83 per 100,000.

The new data analysis follows recent studies in Great Britain and the United States that indicated pill users in general, and especially those over 40, faced a much higher risk of death and both fatal and nonfatal heart attacks than others.

But those studies lumped together both smokers and nonsmokers among pill users and therefore did not take into account the synergistic effects of pill and smoking combined. A synergistic effect is one that is greater than the simple addition of two factors.

Hardin County was named for Col. John Hardin, veteran of the Revolutionary War who was killed by Ohio Indians while on a peace mission to them.—AP

New effort set in May

Arms talks collapse

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance started home from Moscow today expressing hope for an agreement eventually to reduce the Soviet and American nuclear arsenals despite his failure to get negotiations started during his visit to the Soviet capital.

Vance flew to Bonn to confer with Chancellor Helmut Schmidt and brief him on his fruitless five-day attempt to break the deadlock over a new Strategic Arms Limitations Treaty (SALT). He was spending the night in London and visiting Paris Friday for similar talks with British and French officials.

Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev on Wednesday rejected two alternative American proposals, but Vance and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko agreed to meet again in May.

"In my judgment this has been a useful visit," Vance told reporters at the Moscow airport. "Our objective was not a simple one. Reaching agreement on arms control measures can't be accomplished overnight.

"In the meantime, I'm sure that both sides will study the matter which we discussed and will find that their objectives are similar."

More failure awaited Vance in Bonn, where West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt on Wednesday night rejected the Carter administration's urging that it modify its nuclear deal with Brazil and do more to stimulate the West German economy as an aid to international economic recovery.

Schmidt told a news conference West Germany's sale of a $4.8-billion nuclear installation to Brazil would be "one of the most important topics" in his talks with Vance. He reaffirmed his determination not to bow to the U.S. demand that the sale of a reprocessing plant that could make fuel for nuclear weapons be excluded from the deal.

"The American government has known since last year ... that we are determined to abide by contractual agreements," Schmidt said.

Schmidt also reiterated that West Germany has done its share to spur international economic recovery, despite insistence by President Carter's advisers that it and Japan can do more.

The president's reaction to Wednesday's breakdown of Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty negotiations in Moscow was not surprised.

But he expressed his determination to pursue a major reduction in nuclear weapons and declared: "I will not modify my human rights statements."

And, despite his expressed desire to end the arms race, he pointedly warned Moscow that he will consider intensifying development of U.S. weapons if he decides after negotiations in May that the Soviets are not acting "in good faith."

The next round of arms talks is set for Geneva in May with Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko heading the two delegations.

Carter will be in Europe that month, attending an economic summit meeting with NATO leaders and conferring with Syrian President Hafez Assad about prospects for a negotiated Arab-Israeli settlement.

He said he has no intention "at this time" of meeting with Soviet officials then.

After learning of the breakdown in the Moscow talks, Carter told congressional leaders of his plans to "hang tough" for a comprehensive accord that substantially reduces the two superpowers' arsenals.

And, in an impromptu news conference, he told reporters "there was no linkage" between his advocacy of human rights in the Soviet Union and Kremlin rejection of the SALT proposals taken to Moscow by Vance.

"But I can't certify there is no linkage in the Soviets' minds," Carter said.

Regardless, he said he would not modify his statements on human rights, which "are compatible with the consciousness of this country."

The President said he intends to "remain very strong in my position" that the two superpowers this year negotiate not just a superficial agreement allowing them to continue the arms race but to freeze development of new missiles and reduce launchers and multiple warheads substantially. "I am not in any hurry," Carter said. "It is important enough to proceed methodically and carefully." He made no mention of the expiration in mid-October of an interim weapons agreement.

THE OHIO Bell Telephone Co. has paid its Fayette County real estate taxes for the first half of 1976.

Ohio Bell's Susan Link presented the company's check for $66,353 to the Fayette County treasurer. The company's 1976 half-year taxes are up more than $6,500 over 1975's payment for the same period.

The telephone company pays real estate taxes on its land and buildings and public utility property tax based on the wire mileage distribution within a given taxing district.

Corporate tax dollars are distributed to each taxing district according to current tax rates by the county treasurer's office.

ALL LITTLE LEAGUERS who will be 10 years old by July 31 must try out for the major leagues at 9 a.m. Saturday at Wilson Field.

Tryouts for those youngsters who have never participated in the Washington C.H. - Union Township Little League baseball program will be held at Wilson Field, across from Cherry Hill Elementary School, at 1 p.m.

Children who played on a minor league team last year and who will not be 10 years old by July 31, need not attend either session. They will automatically be assigned to the same team again this year.

Any child who will be 10 years old by July 31 or who has not previously played in the local Little League program must attend Saturday in order to participate this year.

First-time players who had not previously registered must be accompanied by a parent.

To repeat, the only children who will be allowed to play Little League baseball without attending Saturday's tryouts are those who played on a major league team last year, and those who played on a minor league team last year and who will not have turned 10 years old by July 31.

Any child eight years old or older is eligible to play in the Little League program.

Deafness no handicap to WCH man

Sounds of silence

By CINDI PEARCE
Record-Herald Staff Writer

The phrase "Sounds of Silence" may seem like a paradox, but it's not. Any person who has spent time in a secluded building void of noises knows how awesome silence can be. It is a sound. The sound of no sound.

Bill Rodgers, a chemist at the Agrico Chemical Co., has spent over six decades in audio isolation. Born deaf, the only sounds Rodgers has ever "felt" (this term perhaps more accurately describing his reaction to these noises than the word "heard") is the occasional backfire of a car, or the loud "bang" of a rifle. They caused him to jump.

He refrains from using sign language. Instead Rodgers reads lips, which he does well and responds orally.

Many deaf people read lips, but this particular means of communication, even for the most astute lip reader, isn't 100 per cent accurate. Some people read lips and use sign language simultaneously which is considered "total communication". This method is now being taught to deaf people who attend schools.

Born in California, Rodgers was the first son, and second child, of hearing parents. "There isn't any deafness in our family," he said.

At the age of 18 months, his parents realized that there was something wrong with him. When his older sister would come into his room and make the usual playing noises, he wouldn't respond. He was taken to a doctor, who was the father of a deaf child himself, and was tested. The doctor clapped loudly. Rodgers didn't react. The doctor used a tuning fork for further testing. Again, Rodgers gave no indication of hearing the noise.

After Rodgers' handicap was discovered, his parents moved the family to St. Louis, Mo., so he could attend what was considered one of the top schools for the deaf. At this time, his mother attended Washington University, in St. Louis, where she was trained in the teaching of the deaf. She continued working in this area for 30 years.

At the school, Rodgers was taught to speak by holding his hand on the throat of a teacher while she spoke. As he explained, different sounds make different vibrations in the throat and this is how he, and the other deaf students, learned to formulate words.

Rodgers said his teacher would play the piano and he and other deaf students would place their hands on the instrument to get an idea of the particular vibrations made by striking a particular chord.

Rodgers eventually left the school for the deaf, attending public schools from sixth grade throughout college, something which he said was "very difficult" for him.

Before marrying, Rodgers dated "hearing" girls,

but he remarked that all along he had full intentions of marrying a "deaf girl", or daughter of deaf parents, or a social worker or teacher of the deaf because a deaf mate or someone familiar with the deaf, would understand his problems."

Once, while in New York City, a friend fixed him up on a blind date. Her name was Mildred. Rodgers recalls that he and Mildred went out for an evening of dining, dancing, and dancing, but afterwards, he decided that he didn't like his companion, who too was deaf and had been so since a childhood accident resulted in such.

Ironically, three years later, Rodgers encountered Mildred and her fiancé at a subway station. Mildred's fiancé lived in New Jersey and had to catch a train for home, but he didn't want to leave Mildred alone in the subway station. Rodgers assured the man that he would take care of Mildred. "I told him to go on home. She'd be fine, just fine," Rodgers commented.

From island crash

Pan Am sets airlift of victims' remains

SANTA CRUZ DE TENERIFE, Canary Islands (AP) — Pan American hopes to start an airlift to the United States Saturday with the bodies of its passengers and crew members killed in the runway collision at the Santa Cruz airport four days ago, a spokesman for the airline said today.

Pan Am's executive vice president, W. H. Waltrip, said special flights would begin as soon as the airlift is cleared of the wreckage of the KLM and Pan Am planes that collided in aviation's worst disaster.

KLM Royal Dutch Airline said it would begin flying its victims to The Netherlands.

The bodies, most of them badly charred, were in long lines of wooden coffins in an airport hangar while the work of trying to identify them continued. Officials from the U.S. Federal Bureau of Investigation were helping with the identification of the Americans, but officials said many of the dead might not be identified until after their bodies were examined in the United States.

One of the investigators seeking the cause of the collision reported that the Spanish air controllers working at the time of the crash followed proper procedure and gave instructions in correct English to the two airliners.

The two controllers who were on duty Sunday were interviewed Wednesday by American and Dutch investigators.

Authorities said the cockpit recorders from both of the Boeing 747 jumbo jets were being flown to Washington for analysis in the presence of KLM and Pan Am personnel who could identify the voices.

William R. Haley, the chief U.S. investigator, said the recorders should show all conversation among the flight crews and between the planes and the tower in the crucial minutes before the collision that killed 577 persons.

It was hoped that the tapes could answer two big questions about the crash — why the KLM pilot began his takeoff run without permission and whether the Pan Am jet should have still been on the runway when the Dutch plane crashed into it.

The KLM pilot was Capt. Z.A. Veldhuizen van Zanten, 51, one of the airline's most experienced fliers, and KLM has said it was "completely illogical and unthinkable" that he would take off without clearance.

But the chief Dutch investigator, Franz van Reijssen, said the control tower's tape of its instructions showed Van Zanten did just that. Spanish officials said the tower's last instructions to the KLM pilot were: "Okay, stand by. I will call you for takeoff."

The Pan Am plane was still taxiing up the main runway to get into position for takeoff behind the KLM jet.

Van Reijssen maintained that the Pan Am plane passed an exit called C-3 at which it had been ordered to turn off onto a parallel taxiway and was proceeding to the next exit, C-4.

DP&L officers to face panel

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Senate Energy and Public Utilities voted 6-2 today to subpoena officials of the Dayton Power and Light Co. for an April 13 appearance before the panel.

In a letter to the committee, the utility indicated it could not appear on that date because of a stockholders' meeting.

The committee, in the midst of an investigation of natural gas shortages in the state, began hearing testimony today from East Ohio Gas Co.

Sens. William H. Mussey, R-14 Batavia and Thomas A. Van Meter, R-19 Ashland, both critics of the committee investigation, voted against the subpoena.

Dudley Taw, president of East Ohio, a company which survived the severe winter weather in better shape than other major Ohio gas utilities, told the panel the utility would be prepared again next winter to meet the "natural gas needs of all our customers."

Taw said his company would not "scrape by from one crisis to another," but needed regulatory flexibility.

Questioned by Sen. Anthony O. Calabrese, D-22 Cleveland, sponsor of a bill to permit gas drilling in Lake Erie, Taw said East Ohio had no objections to resumption of drilling the lake bottom.

But Taw noted, "we have ample supplies on land."

County man critically hurt in rural crash

A 27-year-old Fayette County man was admitted to the intensive care unit of University Hospital in Columbus Thursday morning several hours after he was injured in a one-vehicle accident on Post Road.

James H. Wilson, 5857 Knight Road, was taken to the Fayette County Memorial Hospital emergency room by the Fayette County Life Squad following the early morning mishap. He was then transferred to the Columbus hospital and is presently listed in "critical" condition.

The mishap reportedly occurred at 2 a.m. Thursday, but the wrecked pickup Wilson was driving was not discovered until 3:30 a.m. The Fayette County Sheriff's Department received the accident report by telephone. A local citizen's band radio operator apparently discovered the wrecked truck and advised another radio operator to contact the Fayette County Sheriff's Department and to send an ambulance.

Wilson was reportedly driving northeast on the Post Road less than two miles from the U.S. 62-N junction. He apparently lost control of the truck and traveled nearly 150 feet in a ditch before striking a driveway drain pipe. The truck went over the driveway struck a concrete post, and over turned. The vehicle came to rest on its side facing the opposite direction.

The concrete post and driveway are owned by Leo Beauman, 9492 Post Road.

The only other traffic mishap reported by area law enforcement officers occurred on the McDonald's Restaurant parking lot, S. Elm Street.

A car driven by Naomi B. Wing, 74 Greenfield, reportedly struck a parked car owned by Margaret A. Miller, 601 Gregg St. Mrs. Wing told Washington C.H. police officers that she did not realize she hit the parked auto until she returned to the car and several persons pointed it out to her.

Bureaucratic rules studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill aimed at an "arrogance of power" that results in thousands of bureaucratic rules made outside the legislative process has advanced in the General Assembly with overwhelming bipartisan support.

"On what meat has our Caesar been fed that he has grown so mighty?" asked Rep. William G. Batchelder, R-93 Medina, who used a line from Shakespeare to give his impression of an ever-growing government bureaucracy.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Thomas P. Gilmartin, D-51 Youngstown, would give the legislature authority to invalidate new rules promulgated by state agencies, boards, bureaus or commissions. It was approved 92-2 Wednesday and sent to the Senate.

In the upper chamber, senators passed by a 28-5 vote a bill providing for separate primary elections in each major party for the offices of governor and lieutenant governor.

Under an amendment to the state Constitution approved by voters last year, the two top offices will be listed in tandem on the November 1978 general election ballot. But the amendment left to the legislature the task of determining the primary format.

The bill was sent to the House, which is considering separate legislation that calls for a joint or tandem primary.

Support that crossed party lines surfaced for legislative oversight of state agency rulemaking authority, after addition of a key amendment narrowing the scope of the measure.

Rep. Arthur V.N. Brooks, D-14 Cleveland Heights, gained a one-vote majority for language limiting the Joint Committee on Rule Review, created by the bill, to oversight of new rules and regulations.

With power over existing rules, Brooks and Rep. Harry J. Lehman, D-

16 Shaker Heights, argued the review committee would be subject to unprecedented lobbying from special interest groups seeking to escape state regulation.

"No committee will be wined and dined and honored and treated like the joint committee that will be created by this bill," Lehman claimed.

But on the need to reassess at least a degree "of legislative supremacy over the lawmaking process," as Batchelder put it, there was little disagreement.

"They (bureaucrats) are doing more to enforce their rules than the laws we make in the General Assembly," Gilmartin said, and "they are appointed."

Batchelder recalled a committee hearing almost two years ago when a spokesman for the Environmental Protection Agency, testifying on a similar Gilmartin bill, declared that legislators did not have the "expertise" to assess EPA.

"We created the agency and they tell us we don't have the expertise," Batchelder complained. "We face in the bureaucracy in this state, as we do in Washington, an arrogance of power."

A spokesman for Gov. James A. Rhodes, who vetoed Gilmartin's previous bill in 1975, said the administration remained opposed to the concept. The Senate failed by one vote last December on the final day of the session to override Rhodes' veto.

Alabama escapee bound over

Grand jury receives robbery case

An escapee from an Alabama prison, who allegedly held up a Fayette County service station and then led law officers on an hour-long, high-speed chase early Friday morning, has been bound over to the Fayette County grand jury.

A preliminary hearing for Willie R. Gaston, also known as Willie Sutters, was held Wednesday in Washington C.H. Municipal Court.

Judge John P. Case considered testimony from two witnesses at the preliminary hearing and found there was probable cause to send the case of the 20-year-old Gaston to the grand jury.

One of the witnesses was Roger Gorman, 55, of South Solon. He was working at the Garner's Union 76 Plaza on U.S. 35 near the I-71 intersection when a man driving a 1972 model Cadillac brandished a revolver and demanded money.

The other witness was an Ohio Highway Patrol trooper who was involved in the high-speed chase following the incident.

Gaston was apprehended when he attempted to pull his car off I-71 onto Pfeiffer Road just north of the Cincinnati city limits and wrecked. A .32-caliber revolver, $70 in cash, and Gorman's wallet were found in the car.

At a hearing in Municipal Court last Friday, Gaston requested a court-appointed attorney and John C. Bryan was appointed. Bond was set at $50,000.

Judge Case reduced the bond to $40,000 at Wednesday's preliminary hearing.

Although it has been confirmed that Gaston escaped from an Alabama prison last fall while serving a sentence for rape and the car he was driving during the high speed chase was stolen, the only charges filed so far are for aggravated robbery.

TWO FAYETTE County men charged with the burglary of the Red Rose Farm and Feed Supply Co. Monday have pleaded guilty and been sentenced to prison terms at the Chillicothe Correctional Institute.

Herbert R. Thompson, 29, of Maple Street, and Ronald Langley, 36, of 3478 Knight Road, waived indictment and consented to prosecution by bills of information.

Fayette Probate-Juvenile Judge Rollo M. Marchant, presiding in Fayette County Common Pleas Court during the absence of Judge Evelyn W. Coffman, sentenced the two men to terms of not less than two years or more than five years in prison.

The two men were arrested after being found in the office of the farm and feed supply company by Washington C.H. Police Capt. Dennis Brown.

Brown, who sometimes makes night patrols with his doberman pinscher, could not leave the scene of the crime to call for assistance for fear the two men would flee.

He sent his dog to the front door to

Mr. Bonner, a retired horse trainer, died Sunday.

Pallbearers for the burial in Kirkwood Cemetery, London, were Herbert and Brian Bonner, Bob Gueth, Billy Seovile, Cecil Rea and Steve Shaltry.

Americans say the Pan Am pilot was following instructions and the C-3 exit was at an angle impossible for a 747 to turn into.

The Pan Am jet, piloted by Capt. Victor Grubbs of Centerport, N.Y., was just short of C-4 when the KLM jet began its takeoff run. Grubbs tried to get his plane off the runway, but the Dutch jet smashed into it at a 45-degree angle.

Grubbs, 56, who was flown to the United States Tuesday night with other survivors, said in an interview he heard the KLM pilot report he was taking off and shouted into his microphone, "Tell them not to take off. We're still on the runway!" But some sources said his mike may have been set for communication within the plane since the copilot usually communicates with the tower.

Atom energy cooperative eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is considering the idea of a world-wide energy cooperative that would give all nations equal access to nuclear power for peaceful purposes.

Administration sources say the co-op concept is designed to aid in the development of poor nations and could halt the spread of nuclear weapons by giving non-nuclear nations access to atomic power without forcing them to develop their own nuclear technology.

Administration officials stress that the idea still is no more than "a concept." One expert said, "It is not yet a project or a plan because its details have yet to be worked out with greater precision."

The concept would involve a global system under which interested countries could share in the ownership, development and management of nuclear installations and processes involved in the nuclear fuel cycle.

The sources say the program could be a fallback compromise in case current strenuous U.S. efforts fail to stop West Germany and France from selling Brazil and Pakistan nuclear reactors. Along with the systems and technology for a nuclear power system, such sales can supply a weapons-making capacity.

Carter has spoken in the past about the idea of regionalizing certain aspects of the nuclear power industry on a worldwide basis. The original idea was that there might be one centralized enrichment operation serving West Europe, one serving the Middle East, one or more serving the Western Hemisphere and so on.

The same concept of regionalizing the disposal of radioactive waste, either by recycling to yield plutonium or by burial far from inhabited areas, has been discussed and still is considered a valid possibility. This would mutually deny member nations access to atomic arms material, but would not deny them the use of nuclear power.

But the new U.S. concept of internationalizing the peaceful uses of nuclear energy appears to go beyond anything suggested in the past.

It could, for instance, lead to international financing, ownership and management of research programs, reprocessing facilities or of new generations of reactors located inside the United States.

At the same time, sources said, it could give needier nations a stake in the benefits of nuclear energy development, which they cannot afford to undertake on their own.

Administration sources also say such a program could introduce a universal system of cooperation for the orderly development of the nuclear industry as a source of energy and general scientific and medical benefits.

Tandem election bill faces blocks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill calling for the election of Ohio's governor and lieutenant governor as a team has cleared the Senate but faces an uncertain fate in the House.

It will pass in some form, since voters authorized the tandem elections in a 1976 constitutional amendment. However, the amendment left a big question unanswered, "How shall they be nominated?"

Senators approved 28-5 Wednesday the bill for candidates for the two offices to run separately in the primary, then team up in the fall ballot. Some senators said this might produce candidates who are incompatible, and wind up degrading the already innocuous role of the lieutenant governor.

However, Sen. Tony P. Hall, D-6 Dayton, prevailed in his view that the person seeking the No. 2 spot "should have to run statewide, to establish his identity and credibility."

Sen. Sam Speck, R-20 New Concord, said the governor should have some voice in picking his own running mate who would become what was described as "an assistant governor" under the bill. Otherwise, the governor "may not like him, and wouldn't give him any responsibilities," Speck said.

Presently, the lieutenant governor, who earns $30,000 a year, has only one legal duty—presiding over the Senate. This duty would be eliminated, and the Senate would choose its own presiding officer.

Hall's bill provides that the lieutenant governor would become a member of the cabinet, and preside in the absence of the governor. He also would become chairman of a State and Local Government Commission created by the bill to try to solve mutual government problems. The bill provides also that the governor and legislature may provide other new duties for the No. 2 official.

Sen. Staley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, predicted the measure would hit a "quagmire" in the House, chiefly because of concerns over 1978, when the first tandem election will occur.

Meat inspection phase-out blocked

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A lawsuit brought by a group of small meat packers has kept the state meat and poultry inspection program alive—for a while at least.

Franklin County Common Pleas Court Judge William Gillie has issued a temporary restraining order forbidding the state from abandoning the program on April 10 as was planned.

Gillie issued the order last week in response to a plea from the Ohio Association of Meat Processors, Apple Creek Meats, Marshallville Packing and Gerber's Poultry in Kidron.

John Tucker, owner of the Marshallville company, explained that the suit was filed to fight the abandonment on two fronts.

First, he said, there is a state law that requires Ohio to operate a meat inspection program. The legislature has not repealed that law, and, Tucker contends, Agriculture Director John Stankhouse can't terminate a mandated program.

Second, Tucker and his fellow plaintiffs claim turning the program over to the federal Department of Agriculture would drive small, family owned meat packing firms out of business.

Current inspection regulations require that meat packers dealing in interstate sales must submit to federal inspection. Packers selling only within the state need only pass state inspection.

Tucker contends that the Ohio program is just as good as the federal program, a fact he said is proved by 50 per cent federal funding. That means that the state program meets federal standards.

Stackhouse says he suggested abandoning the state program to save the state more than $4 million. The federal department must fund inspections with the Ohio program out of the picture.

Tucker said that the federal standards seek the same level of meat and poultry products but force packers to meet that requirement through different means.

He said a small business near is Wayne County firm has been making smoked sausage for 80 years but under federal inspection would be forced to spend $20,000 to change its curing method.

"The sausage would be no cleaner," he said.

Election reform bill out of committee

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Majority Democrats sprung their highly publicized election reform bill from a Senate committee Wednesday night after fighting off Republican efforts to take election day registration of voters—"the heart of the bill"—from its provisions.

The vote in the Elections, Insurance and Financial Institutions Committee was 5-3, along strict party lines, with one Democrat absent. It now goes to the rules committee for assignment to a floor vote.

Committee Chairman Tony P. Hall, D-6 Dayton, hailed the bill as a comprehensive package which will encourage participation in the government process by Ohio's citizens while adequately safeguarding the election system from fraud with its heavy penalties.

Sen. Thomas A. Van Meter, R-19 Ashland, and the other Republicans on Hall's committee asserted the measure invites fraud and threatens to make a shambles of elections in Ohio. "A common sense approach to this bill was not taken," said Van Meter, who offered a series of unsuccessful amendments, including the one to delete election day registration.

Under the proposal, an unregistered voter could present his driver's license or acceptable identification card to polling place officials and register on the spot.

Presently, all voters must go to a county board of election or to one of its designated branch offices and must register at least 30 days prior to an election.

Hall said he is delighted that President Carter has submitted to Congress a bill that would permit election day sign-up of voters for federal elections. The federal program could make $3.5 million available to Ohio to help cover the additional expenses the state program otherwise will entail, the Montgomery County lawmaker said.

In addition to what was described as "instant registration," the bill makes it easier to register in several other ways. It provides that it can be done at deputy motor vehicle registrar offices, door-to-door by political action groups or individuals or on post cards prescribed by the secretary of state.

Vote gives assassinations probe committee new life

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House assassinations committee, granted two years to do its work, will "lay to rest all the rumors and rumors of rumors" about the murders of John F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King Jr., its chairman promises.

A sharply divided House extended the committee's life through 1978 by a vote of 230 to 181 on Wednesday after its controversial chief counsel, Richard A. Sprague, resigned.

Chairman Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, said an unofficial count had indicated that if Sprague had not resigned, the committee might have been killed by some 20 votes. He and other panel members praised Sprague and said he had been unfairly maligned by the committee's former chairman, Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex.

Gonzalez quit the panel last month when its members and the House leadership refused to back his attempt to fire Sprague.

Stokes said he expects to obtain a $2.7 million budget this year. At one point, the panel had asked for $6.5 million. Stokes told the House the committee is pursuing new leads and talking to new witnesses. But critics demanding proof tried to force the first secret House session since the 1980s to make the panel spell out its evidence.

That effort was defeated 226 to 185 on Stokes' argument that leaks of the witnesses' names could put some of their lives in danger.

Rep. B.F. Sisk, D-Calif., complained that at a closed briefing on the evidence, "the only thing I heard was that you have evidence that X overheard Y and Z say something."

Stokes cut short a news conference when he was asked repeatedly about his contention that a man who reportedly committed suicide in Florida on Tuesday would have been "a crucial witness."

George de Mohrenschildt, 65, a Russian-born geologist who was a friend of Lee Harvey Oswald, was found dead of a shotgun wound at his daughter's home in Manalapan, Fla., a few hours after a House assassinations committee investigator tried to see him.

Stock prices take tumble

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices continued to fall today as the market opened, adding to the previous day's sharp decline.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down more than two points in the early going, and losers held the lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts blamed a number of factors for the falling prices, including disappointment that a rally Tuesday failed to generate momentum and uncertainty over President Carter's soon-to-be unveiled energy conservation program.

Today's early prices included American Home Products, down 1/4 to 30; Westinghouse Electric, up 1/4 to 17 3/4; and Eastman Kodak, ahead 3/4 to 68.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average fell 10.80 to 921.21, its lowest close since it finished at 912.94 on Jan. 13, 1976.

It was the Dow's second biggest drop of the year, surpassed only by an 11.88 loss on Jan. 4.

Losers outnumbered gainers by more than 5-2 on the NYSE.

Big Board volume reached 18.81 million shares, against 17.03 million on Tuesday.

The NYSE's composite index dropped .58 to 53.61.

Mainly About People

It was incorrectly reported in a recent article concerning the Fayette County Nurses Association's May Day breakfast, quotes from co-chairman Joyce Hidy, were actually those from the other co-chairman Shirley Tarbill. Mrs. Tarbill should also receive the credits for or originating the theme "Captivating 77", the theme for this year's breakfast and the newspaper articles as well as contacting the publishers of the "RN" magazine. The nurses association apologizes to Mrs. Tarbill for omitting her name and recognition to her ideas.

Donald Robinette Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Robinette Sr., of Jeffersonville, underwent knee surgery on Wednesday in Deaconess Hospital, Cincinnati. He is in Room 551.

Charges dropped against singers

WARWICK, R.I. (AP) — Five-year-old charges filed against two members of The Rolling Stones have been dropped by a District Court judge here.

Judge Anthony Dennis of Warwick District Court agreed Wednesday to "file" the charges after Warwick Police Chief John F. Couterer conceded that singer Mick Jagger and guitarist Keith Richard could not be ordered to return to Warwick. The action means the charges will be dropped within a year unless the two are arrested in Rhode Island on new charges.

Four persons leave motel without paying for rooms

Four customers at the Days Inn Motel, near the intersection of Interstate 71 and U.S. 35-NW, left without paying for rented rooms Wednesday morning.

Norma Kahlmer, assistant manager of the motel, told the Fayette County Sheriff's Department that two men failed to pay for a $14 room. She also reported that a couple paid for one night's lodging and then told motel employees that they would stay another night. No payment was made for the second night's lodging.

The Washington C.H. Police Department is investigating the theft of a wicker chair from the Angie Osborne residence at 511 E. Temple St. She told police that the chair was taken sometime Tuesday or Wednesday from a side porch at her residence.

A purse reported missing by a Washington C.H. woman Tuesday night has been returned to the owner.

The Washington C.H. Police Department reported that David Looker found the purse in the Washington C.H. Middle School Auditorium following the final performance of the Lions Club annual variety show. The owner of the purse, Latritia Moore, 362 Ely St., had reported that she left her purse under a chair in the auditorium and left without it following the show.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A fast moving cold front swept across Ohio last night, bringing a return to normal early spring weather.

Overnight temperatures dropped into the upper 30s and low 40s except for some mid and upper 40s in extreme eastern counties.

Central and southern Ohio will remain mostly sunny today. Afternoon highs will be much lower than the past few days with some readings in the 40s near Lake Erie and generally in the 50s inland.

High pressure will move east across Ohio tonight and Friday bringing fair but cool weather. The lows tonight will drop well below freezing over most of the state with low to mid 20s north and 20s to some low 30s in the south.

On Friday the winds will become more southerly again but the temperatures will climb only into the 50s or low 60s. Clouds will be on the increase Friday as the southerly flow brings in more humid air but most of the day should have considerable sunshine.

Better relations with Hanoi

Major benefits already have emerged from the presidential commission's journey to Southeast Asia. Hanoi's invitation to resume the Paris talks, and President Carter's prompt acceptance of it, encourages hope of much accelerated improvement in relations between the United States and Vietnam.

The Vietnamese government's symbolic delivery of the remains of some missing U.S. servicemen also is heartening. This gesture, as well as a pledge to cooperate in accounting for the fate of other Americans, bespeaks a conciliatory mood. It would be naive to overestimate this as a factor in the discussions to come, but for the present the signs are favorable.

As matters now stand, both Washington and Hanoi have indicated feelings of good will and a desire to move toward normalizing relations. This is only the first step, however. There is bound to be some hard bargaining as to the particulars of any new agreement reached in Paris.

The Vietnamese have left no doubt that they expect some aid. It is their position that their response on the MIA question conforms with the Paris accord ending the war, and that the United States must now honor its commitment in that accord to help "heal the wounds of war". Hanoi is anxious, too, for American support of Vietnam's admission into the United Nations.

Washington also will want some assurances as preconditions for a positive response to the Vietnamese. Judging by experience, the discussions will take a considerable amount of time. But an auspicious start has been made as a result of the Carter emissaries' successful mission.

A WORD EDGEWISE...By John P. Roche

Carter's substitute for action

PAGET, Bermuda — In addition to the sybaritic joy of sitting in 75 degree sunshine (locally disguised as something "Celsius," which I am too old and stubborn to decode), a brief escape from the Arctic wastes of New England provides some perspective on

President Carter's "honeymoon." While peacefully absorbing the view of Hamilton harbor, part of my mind has been turning over the baffling question: "What makes Jimmy Carter tick?" In ideological terms, what's his compass reading? In concrete terms, what has he accomplished? In fairness, I should admit a certain bias. During the Democratic primary campaign last year, I followed candidate Carter's statements very closely. I never made a pilgrimage to Plains because, candidly, I am a soft touch and suspect the personable Carter would have conned me out of my shoes. But I read everything he said or released — after all, I was looking for a potential President, not a buddy.

Several ideas for making money may come to you, but be selective. You can't grab the whole bag. Choose the best, then go ahead — with enthusiasm.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)
Be careful how you express yourself. Reach conclusions in your usual logical, orderly manner. Your decisions could affect many; also your example.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)
A period for review, reevaluation of your present status. Make certain you are quite sure of what you REALLY want.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)
Be careful in handling personal affairs; there may be some tricky areas, some kinks to iron out before taking action. Some conflict of interests indicated.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)
A new venture ahead? Don't forget that the advance planning and first moves are vitally important. Don't let "tradition" keep you from trying a new approach.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)
You may have to accomplish more than anticipated, but do not let anything stymie you or your enthusiasm. Stars are on your side.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)
Do not jeopardize a fine opportunity to stabilize your REAL interests through indifference and DO by-pass nonessentials. Have a try at an eye-catching new method.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)
Operate within the framework of a program that will allow for some extra responsibilities. This may sound somewhat difficult, but it will be essential.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
Apply the brakes if you sense that you are overreaching, overshooting the mark. Don't try to follow a set pattern at all times: New trends often call for readjustments.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
If you have a problem to solve, wait until early afternoon when influences will be more propitious than in the a.m. It may be better for you to modify your attitudes and demands.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)
Opponents to your policy may have a point or two. Try for clarification. Some differences can be avoided.

YOU BORN TODAY have a keen, analytical mind, a lively imagination, and are endowed with the confidence and perseverance to attain your loftiest goals. Your intuition and perceptiveness are outstanding. You are inventive and foresighted; throw tremendous power into any project with which you are involved. You are inclined to go to extremes, however, and should try to curb this trait, since you could offset the results of your finest endeavors. You are unusually versatile and, capitalizing on your many talents, could attain great heights in a number of fields — especially in business, finance science (medicine particularly), art, the stage, music or politics. Always "be yourself," however. You will never get anywhere by emulating the methods or carrying out the ideas of others.

Lillian Carter raps tourists

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — First Mother Lillian Carter says her hometown of Plains has been inundated by hordes of tourists and son Billy Carter is leaving town.

Miss Lillian said Wednesday that tourists have become so bothersome since her other son, Jimmy, was elected President that she "can't even eat without someone looking at me."

She said Billy was correct when he told a travel convention this week that tourists have ruined Plains, but she added, "I don't think Jimmy intended it to be that way."

"THE PRESIDENT IS HAVING A FEW CONGRESSMEN OVER FOR LUNCH."

Ohio Perspective

Supporting solons proves expensive

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Taking care of your state legislator's needs in Columbus will average a little over $39,000 per member this year, according to figures supplied by House and Senate clerical officers.

That doesn't include the $17,500 annual salary most of the 132 members draw or their cost of living expenses which they pay on their own, with the exception of those dinners with check-grabbing lobbyists.

In the House, Executive Secretary Joseph Sommer, breaking down a two-year $9.25 million budget, found in the current fiscal year the cost of support for the 99 representatives should average about $29,000 per legislator. That includes: $15,000 each for staff salaries and mileage travel allowances; $11,800 for printing of bills and other materials, office equipment, maintenance and parking, and $2,200 for postage and telephone bills.

The mileage allowance paid out to all House members totaled almost $121,000, while telephone bills have been as high as $15,000 a month. Both areas have been the source of some controversy.

The Senate's present $5.75 million budget, minus salaries, allows for about $69,000 support for each of the 33 members over a year's time.

In addition to a secretary and clerical help, each senator is assigned administrative assistants, who are generally in a pay range of $13,000 to $14,000 annually.

The Senate travel allowance averages about $50,000 a year, according to the upper chamber's chief clerk, William Chavanne.

Sommer, a political appointee who acts as House administrator, says he is in no position to police elected officials.

"It is very difficult to put a tight type of control over the telephones," he says.

Yesterday's Cryptquote: SHE WAS A BRUNETTE BY BIRTH BUT A BLONDE BY HABIT. — ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Let your fireman rescue himself

DEAR ABBY: I'm 22, and John (not his real name) is 29. We've been dating steadily for two years.

John is a fireman paramedic, which brings me to my problem. About three months ago John's squad responded to a car accident in which a very pretty 26-year-old blonde was slightly injured. (I'll call her Nancy.) Nancy wasn't seriously hurt, but she was hospitalized for 24 hours and then released. John happened to be the paramedic who treated her at the scene of the accident, and since then Nancy can't do enough to repay him for "saving her life."

She found out his name and station and wrote him a thank you letter, which I thought was very nice. But she didn't stop there. She's been dropping in to visit him at the station, bringing little gifts. She even baked him a birthday cake!

I think she's carrying her gratitude a little too far, don't you? John says he has no interest in her, but he can't stop her from coming to the station and bringing him gifts, and he doesn't want to be rude or hurt her feelings.

Should I talk to Nancy and ask her to please lay off my guy?

IN LOVE AND INSECURE

DEAR IN: No. He's not "your" guy. (Nobody owns anybody else.) If John wants to discourage Nancy's visits and gifts, he'll find a way. Let him handle it.

DEAR ABBY: Our first child died shortly before his second birthday. In offering condolences some of our friends said, "You'll have another one." Or, "It's all for the best." Or, "It was a blessing."

In behalf of all of us who have lost children, I have this message: We will never again see that child who was with us for such a brief time. He wasn't just "a baby." He was an individual entirely different from any other child we may have in the future.

If my husband were to die, I doubt that anyone would say, "You'll have another one."

Abby, please tell those well-meaning people who want to say something comforting to parents who have lost a child just to say, "I'm sorry."

A MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I do. And thanks for setting many of us straight.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who gave up cigarettes because his doctor said he had to. Now this friend smokes a pipe! I think he's just kidding himself and told him so. He insists that he doesn't inhale when smoking his pipe, so it's perfectly harmless. Meanwhile he's got a pipe stuck in his face all the time, and he's busy lighting it every two minutes, creating huge clouds of smelly smoke.

IS a pipe harmless?

SKEPTICAL

DEAR SKEPTICAL: Only if you don't light it.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, March 31, the 90th day of 1977. There are 275 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1854, the first treaty between the United States and Japan was signed. Two Japanese ports were opened to trade with the outside world.

On this date:

In 1889, the Eiffel Tower was opened in Paris.

In 1917, the United States took possession of the American Virgin Islands after their purchase from Denmark.

In 1933, during the Great Depression, Congress authorized a Civilian Conservation Corps to employ and train young men.

In 1943, in World War II, American bombers pounded the shipyards at Rotterdam in the Netherlands.

In 1970, the West German ambassador to Guatemala, Count Karl von Spreti, was kidnapped by terrorists. He later was slain.

Ten years ago: Soviet Defense Minister Rodion Malinovsky died at the age of 68.

Five years ago: North Vietnamese attacks forced South Vietnam to abandon two bases and an outpost near the demilitarized zone.

One year ago: West Germany canceled plans to build a $600 million nuclear power plant for the Soviet Union on the Baltic Sea.

Today's birthdays: Form high commissioner for Germany John McCloy is 82. Entertainer Henry Morgan is 62.

Thought for today: Self conquest is the greatest of victories. — Plato, Greek philosopher, about 427-347 B.C.

William Bebb, Ohio's 19th governor—1846-1849—was the third native Ohioan to be elected to that office. His father, Edward, who had emigrated to America from Wales in 1795, was the first settler in the Welsh settlement of Paddy's Run, the present town of Shandon in Butler County. The future governor, born Dec. 8, 1802, is said to have been the first white child born in Butler County west of the Great Miami River. —AP

Large grass fire doused by Sabina firefighters

A large grass fire near Allen Road was brought under control by the Sabina Fire Department Wednesday afternoon.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported that the fire is believed to have been started by Chessie System train. Sparks from the passing train apparently ignited grass on both sides of a railroad crossing.

A Chessie System spokesman told the Fayette County Sheriff's Department that a train traveling in the vicinity around 1 p.m. was experiencing mechanical trouble.

No monetary loss was reported in the blaze except for 25 railroad ties that were burned.

The field north of the railroad crossing is owned by James R. Paisley, 10752 Allen Road. The field to the south of the railroad tracks is owned by Wendell Arehart of Bowersville.

The Washington C.H. Fire Department was called to a residence at 215 Circle Ave. Wednesday night. Electric wires were rubbing together and arcing, according to the fire department. There was no fire in the building occupied by Albert Bitters. The building is owned by the United Methodist Church.

What's new at the library?

By KATHY HALVERSON

There isn't anything these days that an ambitious person can't learn from a book. All types of skills - everything from cabinet making, furniture upholstery, wallpapering, cooking, and fixing your car to needlepoint are included in "how-to" books. There are also numerous other "how-to" books of a slightly different nature. These "how-to" books do not offer the attraction of learning a skill or saving money. They offer instead personal satisfactions and a special type of knowledge. The Carnegie Public Library has a number of this type of "how-to" books for that particular person who wants expanded horizons.

Some of the titles sound quite intriguing. Listed below are a number of the more unusual and interesting. Happy reading.

"How to Defend Yourself at Auctions" - Rubin, Leona (Westover, 1972). This was written for everyone who has ever gone to an auction and regretted it or who wanted to go but was afraid of being confused by the rapid patter of the auctioneer and the intricate procedures of bidding. It is for those who need the support of additional knowledge about what they are doing.

"How to Reire at Forty-One" - Hills, L. Rust (Doubleday, 1973). Nothing is harder work than being successfully unemployed says the author of this book. And so if one quits the rat race one must develop a post-occupational identity and replace the work ethic with a new leisure ethic.

"How to Get the Most Out of Your Social Security, Monthly Benefits" - Sciacco, Dr. Carl (Exposition Press, 1974). A concise detailed guide to computing your benefits. There are many benefits available before retirement that are often not claimed because people don't know they can receive such benefits. There are numerous charts, tables and sample calculations that will help you figure out what benefits and how much you are entitled to receive.

"How to Give and Receive Advice" - Nierenberg, Gerard (Simon, 1975). This book unlocks the hidden power within each of us to solve our own problems and stimulate creative solutions in others. It shows how to evaluate what might be useful, how to formulate advice so that it will be accepted, and how to gain from the advice you are getting.

"How to Make Your Wife Your Mistress" - Bind, Lois (Doubleday, 1972). This book is a swinging, detailed guide of what a woman wants of her mate so that they can both have a mature and exciting sex life. A companion volume to "How to Be a Happily Married Mistress."

"How to Get Control of Your Time and Your Life" - Lakein, Alan (Wyden, 1973). Secrets on how-to-get-it-done from America's foremost personal time manager. His techniques provide relief from acute time bind and a sense of being on top of one's own affairs.

"How to Divorce Your Wife" - Athearn, Forden (Doubleday, 1976). This book discusses the man's side of divorce. Man no longer has to go for blood or go for broke in getting a divorce. It demonstrates how a man can keep his sanity and his wallet intact when faced with the anxiety of impending divorce action.

"How to Double Your Child's Grades in School" - Schwartz, Eugene (Frederick Fell, 1975). Most students probably only do half as well as he/she should do in school. The difference between the class failure and top of the class is not intelligence, not ability, but simply and solely technique. This book describes that technique in every aspect.

"How to Make Yourself Miserable" - Greenburg, Dan (Random, 1966).

Expanded bingo eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's charitable bingo law would be liberalized with more groups participating in fund raising games under a bill that has cleared its first hurdle in the General Assembly.

The legislation, sponsored by Rep. Leonard J. Camera, D-53 Lorain, was approved 6-1 Wednesday by a House subcommittee. It will be returned to the full State Government Committee after being reprinted to incorporate numerous amendments.

Rep. Thomas J. Carney, D-71 Youngstown, who cast the sole dissenting vote, said the amendment to the year-old charitable law could ruin bingo in the state by allowing for a proliferation of eligible groups.

"I just don't think we ought to be promoting bingo as a method to raise funds," Carney said.

Youth athletic organizations, ethnic-American war veterans groups, art councils, historical societies and agencies for the physically handicapped would be permitted to apply for bingo licenses under the subcommittee bill.

The original law was intended to permit bonafide charities to use bingo for fund raising efforts, after obtaining licenses from the attorney general's office.

Takes the reader on a step-by-step investigation into every phase of self-torture and humiliation. They share the process of many of the methods they themselves have used so successfully. They hope that this book will be the inspiration for a truly painful, meaningless and miserable life.

"How to Get Your Share of Government Treasure" - Shaw, Gaylord (U.S. News & World Report, 1975). Information and advice on government programs and agencies which provide aid, benefit, services and assistance to the unemployed, the needy, veterans, retirees, the handicapped, etc.

"How to Go to Work When Your Husband Is Against It" - Schwartz, Felice (Simon, 1972). This book is for the educated wife and mother who feels and who knows that she is underemployed; the woman who wants to lead a full life and make a contribution outside of the home as well as within it - but who wonders if she should or if she can.

"How to Increase Your Intelligence" - Wenger, Win, Dr. (Bobbs-Merrill, 1975). Explains in clear and concise terms how a person can actually increase his intelligence in a matter of weeks, through an understanding of how his brain works and by applying some simple techniques.

"How to Lose Everything in Politics (Except Massachusetts)" - Witker, Kristi (Mason, 1974). A funny, poignant, thought-provoking book about one of America's unique institutions - The Presidential campaign. An insider looks at the way it was with the McGovern campaign.

"How to Survive as a Corporate Wife" - Upson, Norma (Doubleday, 1974). Detailed and practical advice on how to preserve your sanity and your family when your husband's job demands more than the familiar "nine to five".

"How to Live Through Junior High School" - Johnson, Eric (Lippincott, 1975). An advisory discussion of the academic, social, family and personal lives and problems of kids grades 5-9 and their relation to the lives and attitudes of parents and teachers.

Dear Folks:

IT'S "ANNUAL" TIME AGAIN

for so many things we like to do!

First, our annual Easter Egg Hunt will start April 1st. A box will be placed at the door containing the percentage of discount the customer receives who finds his name in an Easter egg hidden in the store. Names will be drawn from our mailing list.

Secondly, the annual Miss Martha Washington Contest will start April 1st. Nominations will be received through April 7th. Any girl from 16 years of age to 20 may be nominated. Each dollar purchase will be one vote for the nominee of the customer's choice. The winner receives many lovely gifts and will represent the shop throughout the year, and will also be honored on our float in the Christmas parade. Contest closes May 6th.

Thirdly, as is our custom, we will honor mothers again this year. Nominations for an "outstanding" Mother of the Year will be accepted through April 7th. Each dollar purchase buys one vote for your favorite nominee. Contest closes Friday, May 6th. Saturday, May 7th, the winner will be given a special reception in our shop.

Remember — all contests start Friday, April 1st, and nominations will close April 7th. Contests close May 6th.

Come in or call and give us your selections.

Let's all have fun!

Yours,
Martie

Wedding date is June 4 for Miss Bartley, Mr. Grubb

Mr. and Mrs. Elza Bartley Jr. are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Penny, to David A. Grubb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Grubb, 4162 St. Rt. 35.

The bride-elect, a 1975 graduate of McClain High School, attended Clark Technical College, and is presently employed as a nurses aid at Fayette Memorial Hospital.

Her fiancé, a 1968 Miami Trace High School and Southern State College graduate, is presently employed by the Ohio Dept. of Liquor Control, Columbus.

The open church wedding is planned for June 4 in the South Side Church of Christ.

Clinic attracts many women

According to Hannah Morris, R.N., who is the coordinator for the Fayette County Health Department's breast and cervical cancer bi-monthly clinic, 25 women attended the first session which was held on March 23, at the health department. Mrs. Morris said that the participants were shown how a self-breast examination is done, viewed a film strip, were examined for breast and cervical cancer and also tested for sugar, albumin, and hemoglobin. After the examinations were completed, the women were counseled individually during an "exit interview" conducted by one of the public health nurses.

Dr. Abdal Lorente served as the examining physician and Corrine Sperry, R.N., and a volunteer from the Fayette County Unit of the American Cancer Society, donated her time. Mrs. Morris said that anyone who wants to make an appointment for the clinic, which is held on the first and third Wednesdays of each month, can call 335-5910. The clinic is free of charge.

Country Club Easter dinner

The Washington Country Club has planned an Easter dinner on Sunday, April 10 at the club. The menu will consist of baked ham with sauce, scalloped potatoes, green beans, tossed salad with dressing, chocolate or yellow cake with ice cream, rolls and butter, tea, coffee or milk.

Dinner will be served beginning at 11:30 until 1:30 p.m. Reservations must be made by Friday, April 8, at 3 p.m. by calling Mrs. Harold Osborne 335-4399 or the club at 335-3780. (There'll be no bell).

Shannon Blevins is six years-old

Shannon Blevins, six-year-old son of Mrs. Linda Blevins of 922 Lakeview Ave., was guest of honor at a birthday party Thursday. Games were won by Sherry Spradlin, Kellie McDuffen and Shannon. She then opened her pretty gifts from the little guests, and thanked everyone. Each guest was given a party sack filled with a special surprise.

Refreshments were served to Mark and Angel Blevins, her brother and sister, Shawn and Kyle Barton, her cousins, Toni, Amy and Margie Cousinberry, Kellie McDuffen, Kelli Leaverton, Jennifer Copas, Teri Stanforth, David Fabb, Joe Barnett, Stephanie Ely, Amy Scheiver, Sherry Spradlin, Barry Harper, Kim Yambor, Scott Ramsey, David Weller, Scott Dailey, and Teresa Crawford.

Sending gifts were Teri Rose, Herbie and Kim Isles, Mrs. Stuckey, Shannon's teacher, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Blevins, Shannon's grandparents.

In the evening, a clown-shaped cake was served to Vic and Patsy Saltz, Lana Barton, Esther Knisley, the other grandmother, and Nicki Bower.

Prince Charles visits princess

LONDON (AP) — A London newspaper says Prince Charles, the heir to the British throne, was on a visit to Belgium in his warship when he took time off to have lunch with a prospective bride.

The tabloid Daily Mail, which has reported that Charles, 29, will marry 23-year-old Princess Marie-Astrid of Luxembourg, said today that the lunch took place last Dec. 8 at Laeken Palace near Brussels. Gossip columnist Nigel Dempster said that according to Belgian court circles "the meal had all the air of an engagement party."

The marriage story has been denied both by Buckingham Palace and the Royal Palace of Luxembourg.

Paint Valley Camp Fire Council Day Camp dates announced

Paint Valley Camp Fire Leaders, Inc., met in the lounge of First Presbyterian Church recently for a meeting, when all leaders present were introduced by Mrs. Carl Brady, leader chairman. All were also reminded to turn in the posters made for Birthday Week, to be judged for prizes. Miss Lynn Sanderson was given recognition for having decorated Craig's store window for Birthday Week. It was announced that $852 was collected for the annual Heart Fund Balloon Sale. Mrs. Charles Harris, Mrs. Ronald Blue, Mrs. Brady and Mrs. Bert Yarger were in charge of blowing up the balloons for the event.

"Daffodil Day" will be Friday and Saturday, and leaders desiring to assist with the project, are asked to sign up, for all proceeds will go to Cancer Research.

Permission slips along with 75 cents will admit anyone to the April 19th skating party at Roller Haven. Any amount of tickets may be purchased from a Blue Bird or Camp Fire girl or by calling the Camp Fire office. Without a permission slip, $1.00 will be charged at the door.

April 23 is "Keep America Beautiful Day." Girls may earn a disc award for this special day, for doing a good deed. Leaders must call Mrs. Fred James, Awards chairman, of the deed performed, and the number of discs to order.

The planting of trees at Camp Murdock has been suggested, since the recent fire at the camp destroyed several of the trees, both new and old. In spite of the fire, Day Camp is planned for two sessions. The first will be from June 20-24, and the second June 27-July 1. A bulletin cover contest will again be sponsored, with the winner receiving a free week at Day Camp. Judging for the bulletins will be May 2. May 17 is Senior Citizens Day, and Camp Fire Girls will get involved by making Kleenex corsages, to be pinned on patients at local nursing homes on this day. For more information, girls may call Mrs. Allen McClung at the CF Office next week concerning this project.

The annual CF tour will be to Kings Island, May 21, and admission fee is $7.75. To qualify for a reduced rate, everyone must wear a name tag bearing "Camp Fire Girls — your name, and the date." Bus reservations will be made as soon as leaders phone information to Mrs. Blue or Mrs. Harris.

Mrs. Carmen Frogale had on display a code seal, taken from a package. These codes are found on almost every item purchased in stores. Each code is worth some time to a person on a life support machine. Mrs. Frogale volunteered to gather more information regarding this, and suggested that all leaders have groups start saving them now.

A group organization committee was formed, to go into the schools to organize new Blue Bird and Camp Fire groups. A chairman from this group will be chosen, to sit in on the CF Board meetings. The next leaders meeting is scheduled for April 26.

Leaders present were Mrs. Earl McDaniel, Mrs. Tom Grooms, Mrs. Frogale, Mrs. Whitlow Wyatt, Mrs. Theda Justice, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Blue, Mrs. Karen Anders, Mrs. Robert Engle, Mrs. Norman Moore, Mrs. Yarger, Mrs. Brady and Mrs. Allen McClung.

Clown theme prevails at birthday party

"Clowns for you-on your birthday" was the theme for little Stephen Promen's birthday party held at his home and given by his mother, Robin Promen at 1104 N. North St., recently. Cake, ice cream and punch were served to the little guests by Carolyn Pritchett, Kathy Lyles, and Stephen's Aunt Mel. There were also treats and small games for each child.

To help Stephen celebrate his first

party, those present were Lana and Taira Stepter, Mrs. Elding Lee, Tanika Lee, and Winkie Garrett, Stella, Tracy and Nikki Gray, Darlene and Mark Baker, Carolyn and Cindy Pritchett, Jody Benson, Christi Johns, Kathy Lyles, Melodie Sanders, Mary Anne Whitmore, and Mrs. Lucille Little Stephen received many nice gifts.

Carter gives support to ERA

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter has sent each member of the Florida legislature a reminder that he and wife Rosalynn strongly support the Equal Rights Amendment.

Carter, who has focused on Florida as the next state most likely to ratify the amendment, with action due next month, sent out letters about three weeks ago saying that "Rosalynn and I feel strongly about this issue."

Mark A. Siegel, Carter's deputy assistant for policy planning, said one reason the President acted far in advance of the voting was to avoid complaints of last-minute "outside interference" — an issue that arose after the North Carolina senate narrowly defeated ERA ratification in that state on March 1.

"The real hope of a breakthrough is in Florida," Siegel said in an interview. He claimed a present one-vote edge for the ERA cause in the Florida senate and a seven-vote margin in the Florida house.

In North Carolina and other states that voted on ERA earlier this year, eleventh-hour phone calls and telegrams to legislators by the President and his wife produced something of a backlash.

Siegel contended the last-minute intervention by the Carters was prompted by advice from ERA supporters in the states involved. In the case of Florida, he said, Carter decided on his own timetable.

If Florida ratifies the ERA, it will be the 36th state to do so. To become effective, 38 states must approve ERA in the next two years.

Siegel, who coordinates White House efforts on behalf of ERA, acknowledges that hope for the amendment taking effect this year has all but vanished.

Harbingers of spring abound here now, which means Carter is about due to take daughter Amy to the National Zoo. The President has promised to take her but any firm plans, if they exist, have been kept secret, presumably so father and daughter won't be swamped by onlookers when the big day arrives.

However, it has been announced that Amy, accompanied by her mother, will visit the Zoo on Saturday to accept the gift of a baby elephant from the government of Sri Lanka. Where will Daddy be?

When Carter was campaigning in New Hampshire last year, former Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox, calling himself a one-man truth squad, braved the northern snows to go around telling people Carter was lying when he said he'd done Georgia proud.

Law enforcement course ended by three Deer Creek rangers

Three rangers at Deer Creek State Park have completed an intensive law enforcement training course sponsored by the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Division of Parks and Recreation.

Neal Brady, Robert A. Kelch and John E. Monce Jr., were among the 31 members of the ranger cadet class graduating recently from the Ohio Ranger Training Academy near Zaleski, Ohio, after 10 weeks of full-time training including 320 hours of actual classroom experiences in police procedure.

The academy was administered by Commandant Edward P. Goffos under the supervision of Ralph Vanzant, chief of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources' Division of Parks and Recreation, and Robert W. Teater, director of the natural resources department.

Each ranger received certification from the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, and also received a certificate for having completed an approved Ohio Peace Officers Training Council course.

Brady, of near Jeffersonville, is a 1970 graduate of Logan High School and a 1975 graduate of Ohio State University with a bachelor of science degree in park and recreation administration. He is the campground supervisor at Deer Creek State Park.

Kelch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kelch of Hillsboro, is a 1971 graduate of Hillsboro High School and a 1976 graduate of Morehead State (Ky.) University. He is a ranger stationed at Deer Creek State Park.

Monce, a 1974 graduate of Ohio State University with a bachelor of science degree in natural resources, is also a ranger stationed at Deer Creek State Park.

Noting that he and Mildred never use sign language when communicating (they read lips, responding verbally), Rodgers said that he and his wife never had any children, so he doesn't know whether a child of theirs would have been born with complete hearing facilities. But, since Rodgers' deafness isn't hereditary (which sometimes is the case), and since Mildred's deafness is the result of an accident and not a condition she was born with, chances are that a child of theirs would have been able to hear.

When Rodgers was small, the rule of thumb was to teach the deaf either oral communication (speaking) or sign language. Not both. Now, the deaf are taught to do both simultaneously, plus instructed in spelling. Rodgers is a firm advocate of this method, which is called "total communication". He said that he would advise all parents, who have deaf children, to have their children taught in this manner.

The discovery of Rodgers' deafness at the early age of 18 months was a fortunate thing, since it gave him and his parents more than an adequate warning of what was to come and how the handicap was to be dealt with. But, in many instances, such early discovery is not the case. Ms. Duvall said that many parents aren't aware that their child is deaf, or has a hearing impairment, until it's just "almost too late for them to be treated or taught."

Rodgers' particular type of deafness is called "nerve deafness". Essential nerves in the ears are inoperable and apparently have been so since before he was born. "Nobody seems to know why the nerves didn't develop correctly," Rodgers remarked.

Some deafness is caused pre-natally by rubella (German measles) occurring in the pregnant women during her first three months of pregnancy. Many children, who are born to mothers who experienced rubella while pregnant, are born with hearing defects.

Because of his inability to hear, the deaf person usually has a more highly developed sense of touch. Rodgers said that he is no exception and recalled a recent incident which substantiated the fact that deaf people do have acute tactile senses. "The other day, while driving home, I thought to myself, I've got a flat tire", and two days later, I had one. I could feel it coming on."

Deaf people also have a highly developed sense of sight because they must utilize it, and depend on it, more than the hearing person. Rodgers stated, "Many deaf people make good court room witnesses because they see a lot that you (people with hearing) don't see," he said.

Because of their dependency on sight, and because they aren't distracted by noises, such as those made by a radio, Rodgers said that deaf people make very good drivers. In spite of this, he revealed that he's had a couple close calls while driving his car. "Once, I was driving down the street and I was busy looking at someone and wasn't paying attention to the traffic. All of the sudden, everyone was looking at me. I looked behind me and there was a fire truck. I pulled off fast!"

Saying that deafness is indeed terribly frustrating at times, but one learns to live with it, Rodgers commented, "I've felt resentful many times. Sometimes I would just like to pick up the phone and call somebody and talk." Which is something he has never done and will never do.

Despite his inability to use a telephone, Rodgers and his wife do have a means of communication with the outside world, and it's called a teletype machine. A typewriter-like piece of equipment, which is hooked up to the telephone, messages are typed over the line—something like sending a telegraph—rather than spoken. Laughingly, Rodgers, who said that the teletype machine is "wonderful", announced, "If somebody takes it away from me, I'll shoot myself."

Rodgers said that sometimes people are embarrassed by his deafness, but not usually. "Once during World War II, I was on a train traveling home to see my mother. I sat down by this man and we talked for about half an hour without any problems. Then, he asked me why I wasn't in the war and I told him because I was deaf. After that, we could hardly talk. He got up and left. He was embarrassed. People should learn to relax. You'll get along."

Obtaining a job is one of the biggest problems the deaf person encounters. "Some deaf people don't speak very good English," Rodgers said, adding that this might make the employer think that the deaf person is dumb which isn't necessarily the case. When Rodgers began job hunting, after graduating from the University of Denver with a degree in chemistry and math, he merely flipped through a telephone book, "A, B, C, D," looking for prospective employers. Naturally, Agrico was one of the first he came across. "I went to see them and they told me that they were very, very busy and would like to hire someone with experience. I asked them how I was supposed to get experience if no one hired me. I told them I would work for nothing, but they hired me and paid me $18 a week."

Still employed at Agrico Chemical Co., Rodgers is very active in D.E.A.F. Inc., although he jokingly claims that founder Janet Duvall "made him become active". Jokes aside, he added that one of his main goals in life was to help deaf people. And who better to help aid the deaf sector of this society than someone who knows from first hand experience what the absence of hearing is all about.

Staff seeks correct time

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The staff of the city's Redevelopment Agency has been instructed to come up with a method for telling what time it really is.

The issue arose after bidding on a $2 million contract was fouled up because a clock on the agency's wall ran 27 seconds slow.

It happened like this: Deadlines for submitting bids for a job at India Basin Industrial Park had been set for precisely 2 p.m. March 14. Four contractors had submitted their bids and bid officer Frank Cannizzaro, after confirming with dial-the-time that it was, indeed, 2 p.m., closed and locked the bid box.

But 20 seconds after the lid snapped shut, up ran a representative of Bay Cities to hand in his firm's bid. The clock on the agency wall said 1:59:33 p.m. A spokesman for the firm said Bay Cities had been relying on the agency's clock.

Agency members agreed that seemed reasonable. So they threw out all the bids, called for new ones and told the staff to develop a procedure for determining the correct time.

Bill approved for legal action

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Representatives approved 94-1 Wednesday a Senate measure which allows the attorney general to represent Ohioans who lost funds in the bankruptcy of Universal Money Order Co.

The bill, which now returns to the Senate for consideration of House changes, permits Atty. Gen William J.

Brown to seek recovery of the funds in a New York federal court.

Sen. Charles L. Butts, D-23 Cleveland, said as many as 10,000 Ohioans apparently lost $1 million or more when the bankruptcy was filed early this year.

Seven other states also are competing for Universal's assets.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — This Sunday night and on Easter Sunday, NBC is airing three-hour segments of a six-hour movie on the life of Jesus, "Jesus of Nazareth," directed by Italy's Franco Zeffirelli.

Britain's Sir Lew Grade, whose company coproduced the film with Italian TV, this week screened a 2½-hour edited version to give various clerics, critics and civilians here a rough idea of its contents.

He said that among the missing segments were Jesus' miracles, Mary Magdalene's conversion and the gathering of Christ's disciples. Then the curtains parted, the show began. It started with the betrothal of Joseph, played by Yorgo Voragis, to Mary, played by Olivia Hussey, and from there traced the birth, life, crucifixion and resurrection of Jesus in remarkable detail.

From what I saw, the film is beautifully photographed and seems quite faithful to the Bible. Alas, its pace generally is so slow, so reverent, I fear only the very religious or patient will stick with it.

Robert Powell, a fine-featured English actor, portrays Jesus in His adult years. But save for a few occasions, he seems to be playing only a simmering mystic with a sad, firm gaze that could melt steel.

I don't think anyone would find his depiction offensive, only disappointing. Ditto Michael York, cast as John the Baptist.

York, as he goes about urging all to repent, to prepare for the coming of Christ, comes across only as a wild-eyed, raggedy character who seems convincingly tetchy, not convincingly prophetic.

Peter Ustinov, appearing in Sunday's opener, turns in a good, if somewhat familiar performance as the bejeweled, rotund, and mad Herod the Great. Rod Steiger, cast as Pontius Pilate in Easter Sunday's show, is excellent and very convincing.

Sad to say, Miss Hussey, a very talented actress, seems to have little to do in her major role as the mother of Christ except look saintly or grief-stricken, as the occasion demands.

The film is an admirable and ambitious effort.

It does try to render the story of Jesus in realistic terms, to avoid stock tableau scenes. But tighter editing, a brisker pace, might have made the film a much better effort than the one I saw this week.

Schippers battling illness

CINCINNATI (AP) — Thomas Schippers, conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, has canceled the remainder of his commitments for the year because of a persistent illness.

The 47-year-old Schippers, who has been ill since January, issued a statement from his New York office.

"I am fully aware that there has been speculation that I have lung cancer, and if I and the doctors in various parts of the world, who have been treating me, were convinced that this indeed is the definitive diagnosis, I would be the first to admit it. I have always believed it best to live with the truth.

"At this point, however, there are too many variant diagnoses for me to make any kind of definitive statement," Schippers said, adding that specialists in Switzerland have told him that "X-rays lead them to consideration of an unspecified fungus of the lungs."

The cancellations will affect a guest appearance with the Metropolitan Opera in New York and a spring tour, an appearance as a pianist with chamber music at New York's Lincoln Center and several European engagements in addition to six appearances with the Cincinnati Symphony.

Schippers also cancelled a weekend appearance with the Dallas Symphony.

Here's how we fit your baby's first shoes from Stride Rite.

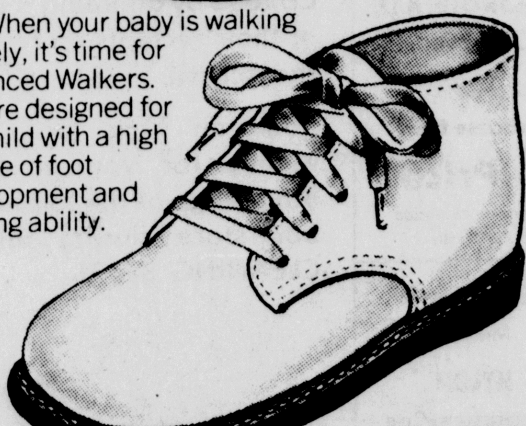

1. We start with Firstties for babies just learning to stand. Stable yet flexible soles provide a surface to balance on. And balance is the real key to walking.

2. Next come Intermediates for babies taking their first solo steps. Soles are a little firmer and provide needed stability at the heel for developing feet.

3. When your baby is walking actively, it's time for Advanced Walkers. They're designed for the child with a high degree of foot development and walking ability.

These three shoes make up Stride Rite's Progression Fitting program. They can help make learning to walk easier for your baby.

MT students to invade local eatery Saturday

Saturday will mark the end of "Miami Trace Scholarship Week."

Washington C.H. City Council and the Fayette County Board of Commissioners have issued official proclamations urging all businesses, civic groups, and residents to show their interest in "Scholarship Week" by encouraging monetary donations to the Miami Trace High School scholarship fund and by visiting Frisch's Restaurant from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

Why Frisch's? The Miami Trace High School chapter of the National Honor Society was a unique way of raising money. Members just invade a restaurant and take over the operations and receive the profits for the day. And that is exactly what will happen Saturday, except that Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mason, owners of the local Frisch's Restaurant, have agreed to allow the student members to operate their business.

The students have undergone several hours of extensive training this week and on Saturday will volunteer their services as waitresses, car hops, bus boys, dishwashers, cashiers and hostesses, everything except the actual preparation of food.

This year marks the sixth year that members of the National Honor Society has sponsored the project under the direction of advisor Fred Doyle. The Scholarship Day activity usually adds $500 plus to the Miami Trace scholarship fund.

On Saturday, the National Honor

Society will also be catering a 4-H project institute to be held at Miami Trace High School from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. As a result of fund-raising activities during the week, $2,500 is expected to be available for college scholarships for Miami Trace High School seniors.

Princess Grace christens ship

NEW YORK (AP) — The first luxury passenger ship to be christened in New York Harbor, the Cunard Princess, has been given its name by another princess in a traditional champagne christening.

"I name this ship Cunard Princess; may God bless her and all who sail in her," Princess Grace of Monaco said Wednesday as she smashed the champagne bottle on the bow of the sleek white ship.

The former Grace Kelly, who gave up

a movie career to marry Prince Rainier III in 1956, smiled at the more than 300 spectators as she carefully wiped away the drops of sparkling wine that splattered on her Chanel suit.

The $60 million, Italian-built Cunard Princess is the world's newest pleasure vessel. Officials of the London-based Cunard Line said they thought it fitting to have their Princess christened by Princess Grace, accompanied by her teen-age son, Prince Albert.

PUCO sets meet on utility shutoffs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio was to meet today to discuss how it will deal with the possibility of mass utility shutoffs beginning Friday.

On Jan. 25 the PUCO issued an order that prohibited gas utilities from disconnecting service for any reason including nonpayment of bills. That order expires Friday and there are predictions that more than 100,000 residential gas customers around the state may lose their gas service.

Elementary students in cast

Musical plans please directors

Scenes are being blocked and lines are being learned for the upcoming Washington Senior High School spring musical, "The King and I." The progress is overwhelming according to directors Kathy Wallace and Nancy Gosenell. Both are pleased with cast performances and expect an excellent show.

Not only are high school students involved in the musical, but 15 elementary students also have parts. The students will play the royal prince and princesses in the musical. Miss Wallace, who heads the music department at Eastside Elementary School, held tryouts among her students to fill the parts. The children's major part is in the schoolroom scene where Anna (played by Sue Stapleton) sings "Getting to Know You."

The children are Missie Beamer, Viann Cales, Sheryl Duffy, Jerry Gault, Harold Grimm, Stephanie Justice, Lisa Leslie, Joelle Libscomb, Denise Martin, Kelly McConkey, Shelly Morgan, Missy Myers, Shelly Templin, Todd Thomas, and Beth Van Dyke. The musical will be presented April 22 and 23 in the Middle School Auditorium.

"The King and I," centers around an English schoolteacher, who has accepted the job of teaching the royal children of the King of Siam. Anna Leonowens, the schoolteacher, is a bit too arrogant for the all-powerful King. Despite the conflicting personalities of the two main characters, they eventually fall in love.

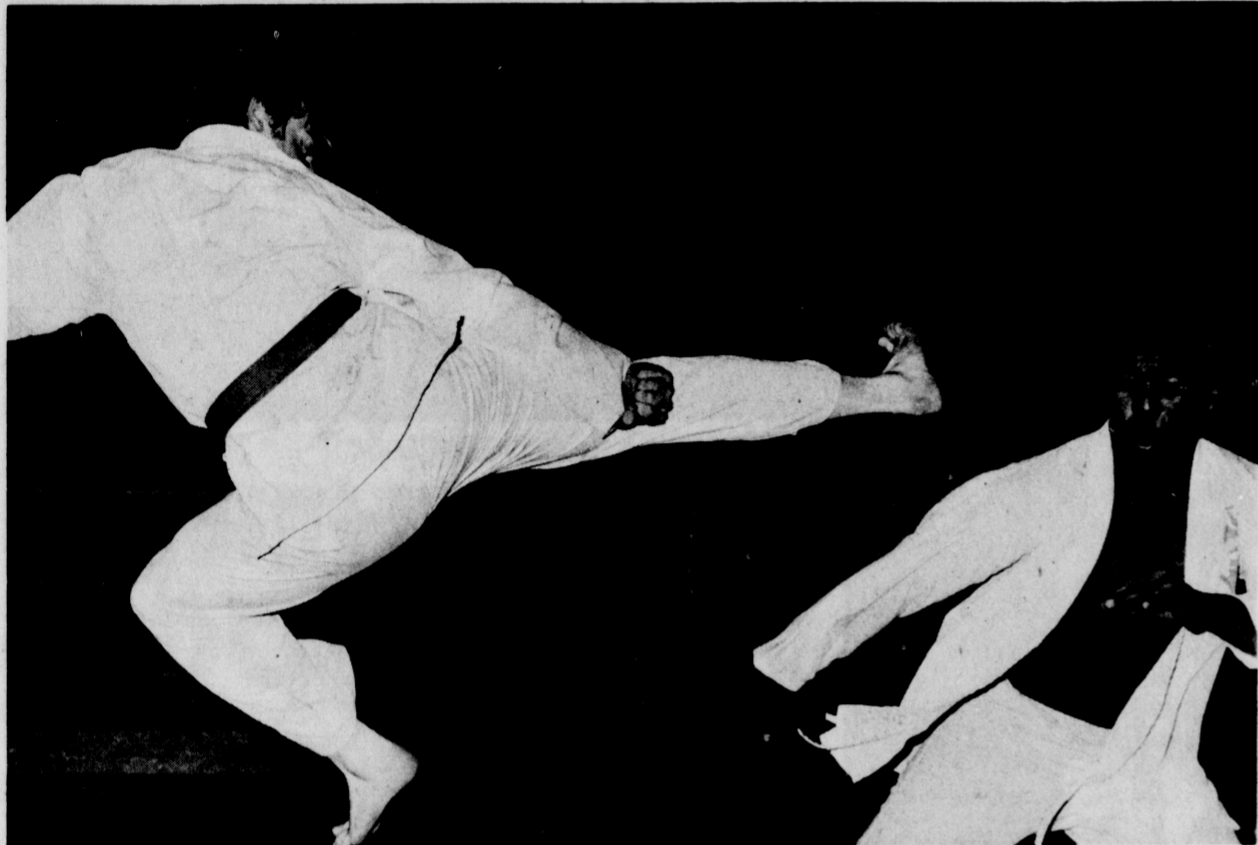

Besides the familiar tune "Getting to Know You," popular songs such as "Whistle a Happy Tune" and "Hello Young Lovers" will be performed by the cast.

The Blue Lines

Student squad edges faculty

The faculty squad included Gary Shaffer, Rick Crooks, Dennis Wollam, Paul Ondrus, Steve Ross, Dale Lynch, Maurice Pfeifer, and Kenneth Hayes. The victorious student team was composed of Kenny Upthegrove, Mark Heiny, Jeff Estep, Jeff Dewese, Bryan Connell, Scott Johnson, Jerry Brickles, Bret Shaw, John Fields, and Randy Aills.

If you didn't go to the basketball game, you missed an action-packed game. Featured were two tough teams; it was the night of the student-faculty game at Washington Senior High School. The student team, coached by Dee Hart Foster and Tom Dean, edged out the faculty, 80-79. The faculty team was coached by Donald Gibbs.

OUCH — Here's a difficult course for Washington Senior High School students. Bret Hunt (the kicker) and Ruffin Haithcock (the kickee) practice the martial arts. The course is run by students in their spare time and is not actually a part of the regular high school curriculum.

Westerville principal dies

WESTERVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Funeral services are scheduled Friday for Westerville junior high school Principal Harold R. Carrick who died Monday. He was 53.

Authorities said Carrick's body was found in his car Tuesday morning. He apparently died en route from Gahanna to Westerville. Authorities said Carrick apparently died of natural causes. He had a history of diabetes and last year suffered a mild stroke. An autopsy was to be performed.

Carrick had been principal at Walnut Springs Junior High School for the past 11 years. Formerly he was a junior high school principal in Marysville and Huron County.

TOM DEAN

KIM ECKLES

WSHS Seniors of the Week

Thomas Neal Dean is our first featured senior of the week. He is the son of Chester and Barbara Dean of 1345 Yellowbud Place. Tom has one older brother, Danny, 18, who is a freshman at Miami University, and a younger sister, Dinah, 13.

Tom is enrolled in the college preparatory program this year. He is taking American Government, Social Psychology, Individual Survival, English Composition, English Literature, and Physical Education. Tom is very active in sports. He has been a member of the Blue Lions football, basketball, and baseball teams for the past three years. He has been a member of the Lettermen's Club for two years and serves as treasurer this year. He also has been a member of the Hi-Y Club and the cast of "Annie Get Your Gun", and he will be in the "King and I".

As a result of Tom's football ability, he was selected all-league and all-district second team this year. Tom's future plans include going to Otterbein College and majoring in either Physical Education or Journalism. He would also like to play football in college.

Another featured senior of the week is Kim Eckles. She resides at 1406 Washington Ave. with her parents Don and Joan Eckles, and her brothers and sisters, Dirk, 19; Keith, 15; Jennifer, 11; and Becky, 8.

Kim's courses this year include, American Government, Algebra, Family Living, Home Economics non-major, English Composition, English Literature, Physical Education, and Band.

In her spare time Kim enjoys playing and bike-riding. Kim is a member of AFS, Senior Y-Teens, and the Sunburst staff. She is also a member of the girls Volleyball and basketball teams. In volleyball, she was chosen as the most improved player and she also made the All-SCOL honorable mention list in volleyball.

Kim is listed in "Who's Who among American High School Students" and she plans to attend the Springfield School of Nursing.

Jeff Estep, the final senior of the week, is the son of Betty and Chester Estep, 902 Pearl St. He has two sisters, Karen and Debbie, who live away from home.

This year Jeff has chosen college preparatory courses.

Jeff's hobbies are tennis and baseball. He is a member of the Blue Lions baseball team and has received varsity letters. He also plays for the First Christian Church Softball team. Jeff's future plans are to attend

Columbus Technical University and major in electronics or printing.

"High school can be fun if you want it to be, but there's a time for work and time for fun. If you don't mix the two up, you'll be alright," was Jeff's advice to the underclassmen.

Record sales expected

New instant lottery game begins April 5

Ohio Lottery Director Gerald J. Patronite has announced April 5 as the first day of sale for the new $1 Ohio instant lottery game.

Patronite said, "It should be very obvious on Tuesday that millions of Ohioans from every walk of life love this game. The public's only complaint about it is that it ends too soon. We are proud to offer it again."

A player can win the instant lottery immediately, and any player can enter four losing tickets in a series of special televised bonus drawings.

Patronite noted that the first instant game "proved to be a big winner for Ohio since it produced nearly $23 million revenue for the state in 10 weeks and it recycled some $29 million back into the state economy in the form of prizes and commissions."

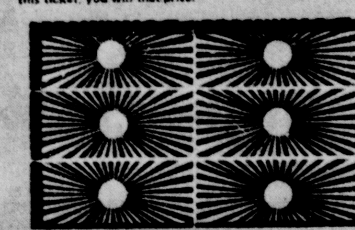

Patronite, the world's youngest lottery director, expects sales of the second game to top $55 million.

To win cash a player simply rubs away the opaque mask which covers six small boxes containing prize amounts. If three identical prize boxes are found, the player wins the dollar amount matched.

The second instant lottery game has a prize structure that features an average of one ticket in nine being a cash winner and paying $2, $5, $10, $1,000, or $10,000 to the holder of the ticket. Winners of $2, $5, and $10 can redeem their tickets instantly at any licensed Ohio Lottery Sales Agent and the tickets will automatically be entered into a grand prize drawing which will produce a top winner of $1,000 a week for life (a minimum guarantee of one million dollars). A runner-up of $50,000 and a third prize of $25,000, as well as seven prizes of $2,500 and 290

On the average, 1 in 9 tickets wins. Using edge of coin, gently rub all 6 spots below. If the same prize amount appears under 3 separate spots on this ticket, you win that prize.

WIN $1,000 A WEEK FOR LIFE!

$1,000 A Week For Life Grand Prize drawn from winning $2, $5, and $10 redeemed tickets.
WEEKLY TV BONUS - TOP PRIZE $50,000!
To enter and 4 non-winning instant lottery tickets to TV Bonus, B.S. 518, Cleveland, Ohio 44101. Watch LOTTERY TV SHOW every Thursday to see if you win.

NEW INSTANT TICKET

prizes of $100 will also be awarded. Prizes of $100, $1,000, and $10,000 must be claimed at one of the seven regional lottery offices in Canton, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton, Marietta, or Toledo. In the televised bonus drawing portion of this lottery, a player can send four losing tickets to Post Office Box 6510 only, Cleveland, Ohio 44101, and perhaps become the winner of $50,000, $10,000, $5,000 or one of 37 winners of $1,000.

4-H roundup

By JEANNIE ANDERSON

4-H Program Assistant

Everything from a tube of toothpaste to the most expensive luxury car has been designed for usefulness, convenience and eye appeal.

These have been designed by professionals. But I believe there's enough of the designer in everyone to decorate a bare room or select a new wardrobe. All it takes is a little imagination, thoughtfulness and awareness.

To develop a new stimulate of awareness in design try your skill in fabric painting. For many years we weren't aware of the potential of the vast color range and how it could affect our lives. When color finally emerged, it stimulated a whole new world to explore. Through the media, color moved in all around us. Magazines, T.V., advertising, even automobiles gave way to brilliant coats.

Painting designs on fabric an ideal 4-H project - and one you will enjoy because it appeals to all age groups. 4-Hers can paint designs on their jeans and jackets, creating truly fantastic clothes.

To start your painting, you'll need a watercolor brush and a set of acrylic paints. The best fabrics to use are denim, cotton or unbleached muslin. Wash any new fabric first or the paint will disappear the first time you wash your painted fabrics.

Municipal Court

Three men arrested Tuesday night by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department for disorderly conduct by intoxication received fines in Washington C.H. Municipal Court Wednesday.

Judge John P. Case fined Dale L. Sharpe, 530 Third St., and Roger E. Sharpe, Hillsboro, $50 each. The third man, Gary L. Howland, Warren, was fined $25.

MT Lunch Menu

Week of April 4-8

Monday - Luncheon meat sandwich, French fries, sliced pears, cookie and milk.

Tuesday - Chili soup (crackers), peanut butter sandwich, carrots-celery, chilled fruit and milk.

Wednesday - Hot dog on bun, baked beans, spinach, fruit cobbler and milk.

Thursday - Easter Vacation.

Friday - Easter Vacation.

Gas category for schools eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Ohio's schools would fall into their own natural gas curtailment category under a bill introduced Wednesday by Rep. Charles R. Saxbe, R-75 Mechanicsburg.

Schools fell within the commercial-industrial category during the severe winter which forced many across the state to close for varying periods of time.

Saxbe's bill establishes an "education" category which is the second priority, just behind the top-rated human needs classification.

The third class would be non-substitutable commercial and industrial, or those which cannot switch to alternate fuels, while the lowest priority would be substitutable commercial-industrial.

Reductions in curtailments would follow the same priority scheme under the Saxbe proposal which is similar to one endorsed earlier by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Select your design. If you can't come up with an original design on your first try, copy a design you like. Draw this design with chalk on dark fabric or with pencil on light fabric. Limit your colors to three. Thin the paint with water to the consistency of heavy cream. Pin down your work with thumbtacks. For double thicknesses like T-shirts, insert cardboard, or you'll paint both front and back. It's very important to wash brushes thoroughly between colors. Apply the paint in three thin coats. Allow each coat to dry thoroughly before the next coat.

Before wearing, allow item to dry several days, then wash them in lukewarm water and mild soap or detergent. There are many different craft projects being done today in 4-H.

It's a skill that you can apply to other decorative processes such as decorating furniture (including antiques), or leather, tinware, woodenware, textiles, wall graphics. It's a skill that could also lead into woodworking projects, printmaking, paper mache, and collage.

A creative art 4-H project has much to offer. For more information about joining a 4-H club call the County Extension Office at 335-1150.

Traffic Court

A number of waivers were signed in Washington C.H. Municipal traffic Court Wednesday.

John H. Cooper, 70, Cedarville, signed a $40 waiver for driving left of center. Stephen Williamson, 22, Greenfield, signed a $35 waiver on a similar charge.

Shirley S. Zugg, 28, of 927 Briar Ave., signed a $35 waiver for a stop sign violation, and Daniel J. Belpen, 27, Cincinnati, signed a $25 waiver for hitchhiking.

Speeding waivers were signed by Darrell E. Roberts, 32, New Holland, $30; Norman R. Randall, 33, Columbus, $30; Thomas L. Selvage, 29, Greenfield, $35; and Charles F. Hughes, 41, Grove City, $25.

On Thursday, Bradley J. Kirkpatrick, 18, New Holland, signed a $35 waiver for driving left of center and a $30 waiver for speeding.

Girls state finals begin tomorrow

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Toledo Central Catholic and Springfield North, a pair of young teams with undefeated records, go against more experienced Columbus Walnut Ridge and Mentor Friday night in the Ohio Class AAA girls high school basketball semifinals.

Central Catholic, the coaches' tournament favorite, has rolled past 21 straight opponents with three starting sophomores. The Fighting Irish face 17-1 Walnut Ridge, whose three seniors and two juniors have played at least two years together.

Springfield North has posted a 23-0 mark with only one senior regular. Against Mentor, 194, the Panthers test a veteran lineup of three seniors and two juniors.

The four are after the first AAA title won last year by Toledo Woodward, eliminated early this time by Central Catholic.

The Class A semifinalists launch the marathon Friday sessions in St. John Arena on the Ohio State University campus.

Mansfield St. Peter's, 14-5, the first school to place its boys and girls in the semifinals in the same season, takes on Lancaster Fisher, 20-4, at 9:30 a.m. Delphos St. John's, 22-0, the coaches' favorite, plays Arcanum, 16-0, at 11:30 a.m.

In the Class AA semifinals, Springfield Northwestern, 16-1, battles Pemberville Eastwood, 16-3, at 2:30 p.m. while Campbell Memorial, 18-6, draws the coaches' title choice, Warsaw River View, 21-0, at 4:30 p.m.

Central Catholic relies on its forwards, 5-foot-9 Kristi Gordon and Peggy McCarthy, for 30 of its points per game. Miss Gordon averages 17 points and Miss McCarthy 13.

"But we've got good scoring balance and good defense. We play whatever defense we need," said Frances Krompak, the Toledo coach.

Three seniors, Mollie Perdue, Cindy McKnight and Wendy West, have led Walnut Ridge to 7-4, 15-1 and 17-1 records the last three seasons.

"I have good players. That's the secret. They know how to win," said Carol Smith, the Scots' coach. Two juniors lead Walnut Ridge, 5-8 Pat Harris averaging 19 points and Lynn Callander 18.

Springfield North attributes its state berth to a 1-2-2 zone defense and accurate outside shooting. The Panthers' ringleader is 6-0 junior center Sandra Fullen with 15.2 points and 16.0 rebounds a game.

North also has fine speed with 5-8 junior guard Tonette Browning, the reigning AAA state 220-yard track champion. Miss Browning and her twin sister Lizette, were part of the school's 380 relay unit that ranked third nationally last spring.

Mentor, second in its league during the season, will be strengthened by the return of 511 Tracey Evans. The junior forward missed most of tournament action with a gimpy ankle.

"She should be much stronger this week," Mentor Coach Alice Khol said of her star, who carries a 19-point average.

Cauthen to ride at Latonia

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — Apprentice jockey sensation Steve Cauthen, who will make a homecoming appearance Friday night at Latonia, has been nominated to ride in six of the eight races.

The 16-year-old Cauthen is the nation's leading jockey, with 183 winners so far this year.

PROJECT SCHEDULED — Charles Moore, representative of Mac Tools, Inc. which donated money to the Fayette County unit of the American Cancer Society, is pictured with Wilma Clark and Donna Craig, co-chairmen of the upcoming Daffodil Days which will be held on April 1 and 2.

'Daffodil Days' project scheduled

...when suddenly I saw a crowd, a host of golden daffodils. . .", which was written by William Wordsworth (1770-1850) reflects the sentiments of Fayette Countians who will contribute to the American Cancer Society by purchasing the yellow flower during the fourth annual "Daffodil Days" project on April 1 and 2.

The Fayette County unit of the American Cancer Society, in cooperation with Beta Omega chapter of the Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority, of Washington C.H., will be selling the daffodils at several locations.

In 1974, Mrs. Harry Haines introduced "Daffodil Days" to Fayette County and at that time 25 units participated in the event. Last year, 58 units took part and a total of 6,048 flowers were purchased, resulting in a gross profit of $1,200.

Mrs. Donna Craig, philanthropic chairman for Beta Omega, will chair the event. She will be assisted by Mrs. Wilma Clark, co-chairman.

The daffodil was chosen because it "brings a sense of hope and renewal of life" to cancer patients. A donation of 25 cents will be asked for one daffodil, and a donation of $2.50 for a dozen daffodils.

The following groups, listed with their advisors, will be selling daffodils: Scissors and Saucers 4-H Club, Mrs.

Blue Birds, Beulah Curnutte.

Camp Fire groups: Tan Da, Bonnie Blue; Wicaka Manuka, Karen Anders; Wa Di Ta Ka Ah Ne Ah, Carrie Ferguson; Da Kon Ya, Lynn Sanderson; Ke Ho Fo An Ge Ta Ha, Helen Root; Rose Avenue Chick-A-Dees, Martha Moore; Tawanka, Shirley Harris; Wisa Loho Wedo Luta, Dorothy Sanderson.

Former resident honored as outstanding educator

WOOSTER, Ohio — A former Washington C.H. resident has been named as one of the "1977 outstanding young educators" at Wooster.

Mrs. Melinda (Mindy Shaw) Wise, an elementary teacher in the special education program of the Wooster School District, recently received the honor.

Mrs. Wise, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Byers W. Shaw, 436 Jupiter St., earned a bachelor of arts degree in 1974 from the College of Wooster, graduating with departmental honors in sociology. She has been a special education instructor at Wayne Elementary School in Wooster for the past three years.

After completing her student teaching in Portland, Ore., Mrs. Wise joined the Wooster School District faculty in 1974. She worked throughout her four years in college as an Ida Sue volunteer, participating in classroom work and in extra-curricular activities with students in the program. The Phi Beta Kappa member was affiliated with various campus organizations, and since her junior year in college has served as a big sister in the College of Wooster's Big Brother-Sister program.

She has been a volunteer for the American Cancer Society and the March of Dimes, as well as at Boys Village, and was a counselor at a local camp for special education students in 1972. Mrs. Wise served for two years as treasurer for the Fayette County Council on Exceptional Children, and also served as membership chairman for the organization for one year.

Mrs. Wise has been a member of the Christian Business and Professional Women's organization for two years, is active in the Westwood Baptist Church, and has served on the reading series and on special education curriculum committees of the Wooster School District. She has also completed graduate work at Akron University.

Her husband, Jeff, is a teacher at Waynedale High School. The couple resides in Wooster.

Pill, cigarettes bad combination

NEW YORK (AP) — Women over 40 who use birth control pills and smoke run a much higher risk of heart attacks than those who use the pills but don't smoke.

Women in their 40s who smoke more than 15 cigarettes a day die of heart attacks or blood clots nearly 12 times more frequently than those who don't smoke at all.

These were the major findings of a new study of mortality risk and oral contraception that was reported Tuesday by research analyst Andrudh K. Jain of The Population Council.

Jain, summing up his study, said: "The safety of the pill should be considered separately for smokers and nonsmokers because the effects are different."

"Women over 40 who take the pill and do not smoke are not exposed to substantially higher risk of death."

Jain and others at a news conference said they did not know what physical mechanism would account for the excess mortality among pill users who smoke.

The Jain study found that the annual mortality rate from heart attacks and blood clots for women aged 40-44 who use oral contraceptives but do not smoke is seven per 100,000 — or roughly a third the risk of death from pregnancy and childbirth among women who use no birth control.

But the pill users in this group who do smoke face a mortality risk of 59 per 100,000, the Jain study found. And among heavy smokers — more than 15 cigarettes a day — the risk is 83 per 100,000.

The new data analysis follows recent studies in Great Britain and the United States that indicated pill users in general, and especially those over 40, faced a much higher risk of death and both fatal and nonfatal heart attacks than others.

But those studies lumped together both smokers and nonsmokers among pill users and therefore did not take into account the synergistic effects of pill and smoking combined. A synergistic effect is one that is greater than the simple addition of two factors.
